Truman's Home Relief Program Strikes Snag

Senators To Fight Removal Of Teeth From Atlantic Pact

Pledge To Help Friends In Europe Demanded

By JACK BELL

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP) — A group of senators prepared today to fight any move which might water down the terms of the proposed Atlantic defense treaty in Senate debate.

Five members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said privately they are ready to demand individually the strongest sort of pledge possible—short of an automatic war declaration — that this country will back its friends in Europe if they are threatened by Communist aggression.

It is their view that the tentative treaty language on this point, as shown the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week by Secretary of State Acheson, is satisfactory—if it is not weakened in Senate debate.

The exact language has remained secret but an influential Democratic senator said it will give signatory nations assurances the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack.

Some other senators said they fear the drive to get approval of the treaty by the necessary two-thirds Senate vote might bring some between-the-lines interpretations that would destroy its usefulness as a psychological weapon.

Support Of 64 Needed

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) already has told the Senate what he thinks about the psychological value of the proposed agreement between this country, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said, in effect, that any country problem will hesitate to move in a military way so long as there is treaty notice that the United States will take a vital interest in any aggression.

But Senator Donnell (R-Mo) already has made it plain he will insist that there be no advance commitment—even an implied one—that this country will fight.

Donnell has said he will protest if the agreement includes "something which is going to involve—or be justly and reasonably said by the other signatories to involve—a moral commitment to go to war."

The Missouri senator's reaction is regarded as important by Senate leaders because they believe he represents the thinking of a "fringe" group which might swing either way on the treaty question.

If all senators voted, leaders would have to muster support of 64 of the 96 to get treaty approval.

Ithaca High School Player Dead; Four Hurt In Car Crash

St. Johns, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—An Ithaca, Mich., high school basketball player was killed and four teammates injured last night while returning from the Michigan State-Minnesota basketball game.

Le Roy Thumb, 15, was killed. The four injured are John Gerhig, 18; Charles Hartman, 18; Duane Vernon, 17, and Richard Warmouth, 17, all of Ithaca. They are being treated at Memorial hospital in St. Johns for minor injuries.

The youths had been driven to East Lansing by their coach, Richard Page. Returning to Ithaca after the game, Page's car skidded on sleet-crusted US-27 and rammed into an oil tank truck.

Chicago Burglars Rob Safe, Set Fire, Blow Out Windows

Chicago, Feb. 22 (AP)—Burglars blew out nearly 50 windows and set fire to a downtown building today in blasting a safe in the office of the John Marshall law school.

The amount of money taken was not determined immediately.

Firemen estimated damage at $1,000 but said many of the institution's records were destroyed.

Unions Impatient On New Labor Law

By MAX HALL

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Democrats in Congress, urged on by impatient unions, sought today to speed passage of a new labor law.

The Senate Labor committee neared the windup of its stormy hearings with no visible changes in the views of its 13 members. Their opinions have been voiced day after day, sometimes at greater length than the witnesses'.

Following the hearings, which are due to end tomorrow, the committee's 8-5 Democratic majority is expected to approve—with perhaps minor changes—a bill embodying President Truman's labor proposals.

Those proposals would replace the Taft-Hartley act with the original Wagner act—plus certain changes such as emergency boards which could recommend settlements in disputes threatening the national health or safety.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), sponsor of the administration bill, appealed to the committee's Republicans late yesterday to exercise "good will" and help speed the measure to the floor even if they oppose it later in the Senate debate.

"Let's discuss it where there's more room, over in the Senate," he said during the hearing.

But the Republicans are pretty sure to demand their right to argue—even in the committee sessions—for certain Taft - Hartley provisions they want to tack to the Thomas bill.

"I would like to have the privilege of reasonable discussion," Senator Donnell (R-Mo.) told a reporter.

Donnell especially wants to preserve a Taft-Hartley provision authorizing the government to delay "national emergency" strikes by means of 80-day injunctions.

Yesterday he clashed repeatedly on this subject with a labor witness, Byrl A. Whitney, educational director of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Don't Cross River, Chinese Reds Told

Nanking Assault Would End Peace Dickers

Canton, Feb. 22 (AP) — Acting President Li Tsung-jen today warned the Communists must not cross the Yangtze river if they want peace. Li then took off for Kweilin.

The second president said a Red attack on Nanking and Shanghai south of the river would end efforts for peace negotiations.

Li's departure was much more cordial than his reception. He came here to try to persuade Premier Sun Fo and the cabinet to return to Nanking. At first Sun appeared cold toward Li. But he and the cabinet saw the acting president off at the airfield.

(In Hong Kong Professor Wu Yu-Hao, spokesman for an unofficial Nanking peace delegation, said he and two companions hoped to accompany Sun Fo back to Nanking within three days. The three were in Hong Kong to try to lay before South China Communist leaders Sun's ideas for peace. Any "exchange of ideas" resulting from the Hong Kong visit will be reported to Li and Sun Fo, Wu said.)

The Communists have been sitting north of the Yangtze for several weeks and have given no indication they intend to cross the river right away. Red Gen. Chen Yi reportedly told a Li emissary, guerrilla leader Li Ming-Yang, the Communists would not cross as long as there was hope of peace.

Court In Germany Frees Fritz Kuhn

Munich, Germany, Feb. 22, (AP) —Fritz Kuhn, former leader of the German-American Bund, was freed today by a German appellate court. He said he would try at once to regain his American citizenship, lifted during the war.

Red Rocket Bomb Lands In U. S. Zone

Berlin, Feb. 22 (AP)—U. S. authorities said today a Russian rocket fired in practice during maneuvers landed some time ago in the American zone of Germany without causing any damage or injuries.

The incident had been filed away in the top secret category because it would have served no purpose to make it public at the time, a high American officer said.

"It was a rocket of the ordinary type and nothing unusual in its construction," the officer said.

The disclosure came as the Russians lashed out anew with propaganda blasts against the west. Lt. Gen. G. S. Lukanschenko, Soviet chief of staff in Germany, charged that the United States is holding more than 100,000 Soviet citizens in western Germany.

The rocket was found a short distance across the American side of the zonal boundary in a remote and unpopulated area.

"Apparently it was fired during practice and strayed a little off course," the officer said. "There was no harm done."

The Soviet army in Germany engaged in widespread maneuvers last fall and it is possible the rocket was fired then.

The army classified the discovery of the rocket so secret that the details still are and will remain under lock and key.

Tipsy Brawl Fatal To Father And Son

Bodies Found In Home At Mt. Vernon, O.

Mt. Vernon, O., Feb. 22 (AP)—Authorities today sought the weapon with which they believe a father and son beat each other to death during a drunken brawl in nearby Fredericktown.

The pair, identified as Herbert Stevens, 61, and his son, Harold, 32, were found dead in their apartment yesterday.

Coroner C. L. Harmer said he would rule they died fighting with each other while intoxicated "unless other evidence should be turned up."

"There was a blood coated axe handle there which could have been the weapon that killed them."

He said the apartment would be gone over completely for possible weapons in the slayings.

A gas stove, apparently burning for some time, had so heated the two bodies that the bodies were "terribly decomposed," Dr. Harmer said.

The decomposition of the bodies, Dr. Harmer said, made it virtually impossible to determine the exact cause of death.

Flood Threat Grows Worse For Midwest

Serious Trouble Expected As Temperature Rises

(By The Associated Press)

Threats of floods in midwest areas increased today as the mercury headed for above freezing marks over the snow-covered areas of Nebraska. Warmer air moved across the plateau states and northern Rockies and much melting of huge piles of snow was expected.

Temperatures in the 40's were forecast for eastern Nebraska and from 45 to 55 in the western part of the state. At Lincoln, Nebr., Gov. Val Peterson called a conference of Nebraska State, local and federal agencies tomorrow to plan for the possibility of serious flooding.

"It's pretty near a cinch that we'll be in for trouble—serious trouble," Peterson said.

Rising temperatures also were forecast for the Dakotas, with readings in the 40's in parts of South Dakota. Meanwhile, the Fifth Army was hoping to finish the job of clearing roads of snow in the disaster area in a few days.

Beulah To Revive Its Smelt Dipping Festival April 1

Beulah, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—Plans for a revived smelt festival around April 1 were being made in this community.

Crystal Lake and Cold Creek which runs through Beulah were the scene of the Great Lakes' first smelt run in 1922. The fish later multiplied through the northern lakes and the spectacular spawning runs became the basis for many dipping festivals.

The fish died off mysteriously in the early 1940's, but have been staging a comeback recently.

Armistice Dickers With Israel Begun By Trans-Jordan

Rhodes, Feb. 22 (AP)—A Trans-Jordan delegation is flying here Thursday to begin armistice talks with Israel.

A United Nations official made the announcement last night and said the acting mediator, Dr. Ralph Bunche, had been advised of Trans-Jordan's intentions by U. N. representative at Amman, Trans-Jordan capital. The negotiations are expected to get underway on Friday.

Trans-Jordan will be the second Arab country to undertake armistice negotiations with Israel.

Father Of 10 Kills Wife And Himself At Talladega, Ala.

Talladega, Ala., Feb. 22 (AP)—A 48-year-old father of ten children shot his wife to death and then killed himself last night.

Coroner J. M. Hughes said the bodies of Ernest L. Roberts and his wife Bessie, 44, were found lying close together in their home about eight miles west of here. He gave a verdict of murder and suicide.

Hughes said neighbors told him the Roberts had been having domestic troubles.

The couple's 17-year-old daughter Vernita witnessed the shooting. She told Sheriff Earl Howell of Talladega county that her mother struck Roberts and started to walk from the room. Roberts grabbed a gun and shot his wife three times, and then turned the gun on himself.

Primary In Detroit Cost $1.23 Per Vote

Detroit, Feb. 22 (AP)—On the basis of voter participation Detroit's spring elections yesterday ran toward the extravagant side.

It cost $1.23 a vote, according to official estimate.

In nine contests for minor offices only about 80,700 of Detroit's 868,000 registered voters took part. For this the city spent $99,500.

It was only second high to the record, however. In 1945 the spring election cost $1.44 a vote.

Capital Observes 217th Washington Anniversary

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The capital observed the 217th anniversary of George Washington's birth today with parades and wreathlaying ceremonies at the first president's tomb.

Central event of the day was the ceremony sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at Mount Vernon, where Washington lived and was buried. President Truman sent a wreath to be placed at the tomb.

The day was a holiday for government workers.

Both Houses of Congress were called together at noon for the traditional reading of the first president's farewell address. The reading chore went to Senator Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me.) in the Senate and to Rep. Corbett (R-Pa.) in the House.

Hoover Report Asks Reforms To Spare Farmers Confusion

Agriculture Department May Save 80 Million

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—The Hoover commission said today reorganization of the agriculture department could save taxpayers at least $80,000,000 a year. Also, it said, the changes would save farmers a lot of confusion.

In a report to Congress, the commission recommended a broad overhauling of the department—both in Washington and in the field—and transfer to it of some food and land activities now carried on by other governmental agencies.

From the farmer's standpoint, perhaps the most important recommendation is one which would unify the department's far-flung activities in each agricultural county to end what the commission called "duplications, overlappings and often conflicting policies."

The commission, a bipartisan group on government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, commended the department as a "vital and effective" agency in carrying out programs of value to farmers and consumers.

But its rapid growth has resulted, the report said, in what amounts to a "loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies" which often "overlap and duplicate."

The commission said there has been a long and wasteful conflict between certain soil conservation, range, forest and allied services of the government due to a division of their functions between the agriculture and interior departments.

It said that "logic and public policy" require that major land agencies be grouped in the agriculture department. It recommended that land activities of the interior department, chiefly those relating to public lands— with exception of mineral questions—be transferred to the agriculture department.

Comeback Arranged For Gloria Swanson

Screen Siren, 51, To Play Ex-Movie Queen Role

Hollywood, Feb. 22 (AP)—Gloria Swanson, nearing her 51st birthday, has come back to Hollywood to play a role for which she is especially fitted—that of an ex-movie queen.

The woman who rose from a $2-a-day bathing beauty extra to a $12,000-a-week screen siren in the '20s and early '30s, has signed a contract for a role in Paramount's "Sunset Boulevard."

The star of many a silent and early sound epic has been appearing before the television cameras in New York, keeping her talents sharpened.

She started her illustrious film career as an extra in Keystone comedies in 1917. Her first starring role as a dramatic actress came two years later under Cecil B. De Mille in "Don't Change Your Husband."

She did—four times—in actual life, the first of her five spouses being Wallace Beery.

She made six pictures in sophisticated roles with De Mille, each fabulously successful. Her success story continued when she switched to Paramount. Women copied her mannerisms and clothes.

Among her 56 films were "For Better For Worse," "The Great Moment," "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," "Wages of Virtue," "Untamed Lady" and "Perfect Understanding."

FISHING PERMITS DROP

Lansing, Feb. 22 (AP)—Poor ice conditions were blamed today by the conservation department for holding sale of fishing licenses in January to 23,481, nine per cent lower than January, 1948.

Democrats Delay Tax Revision Bill Down At Lansing

Lansing, Feb. 22, (AP) — Proponents of a proposed constitutional amendment to encourage school building may muster their forces for a push to get House approval today.

The proposal, approved by the Senate last week, has until Wednesday at least to get on the spring ballot, Secretary of State Fred M. Alger, Jr., said. Previously he had asked it be turned over to him by last Friday.

Backers of the measure in the House were not sure they had converted enough Democrats to bring the question to the floor last night, so no action was taken.

The Democrats had voted in a bloc against the measure Thursday and defeated it. It was laid on the table, however, and was eligible for further consideration.

The Democrats objected principally to a provision that would limit voting on raising the 15-mill tax limitation to taxpayers. They wanted to permit all voters to express themselves.

A meeting of 11 school superintendents yesterday went on record as opposing the proposal if it permitted all electors to vote.

The proposed amendment would remove the 15-mill limitation on taxes for school construction. Taxes for other school purposes could be raised up to 50 mills for 20 years by a vote of taxpayers. Its proponents contend it would reduce interest on bonds for school building.

The House last night sent back to the judiciary committee another proposed amendment to the constitution which would permit the legislature to authorize verdicts in civil cases by less than a majority of the jury.

The House got into a squabble over setting a minimum jury vote, and sent the proposal to the committee for study.

Rep. Andrew Bolt (R-Grand Rapids) failed in an attempt to kill a resolution calling for a House committee to study utility rates. He succeeded in getting reconsideration of a favorable vote on the committee, but the House approved it all over again.

Bolt said he objected because the job was too big for any legislative committee.

Draft May Be Used For National Guard

Security Strength Sought In Reserve Branches

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Use of the draft law to boost the national guard and army reserve branches to over 1,000,000 men for "security" reasons has been urged by a civilian-military study committee.

The group proposed an army national guard of 475,000 and an organized reserve corps of 579,300, for a total of 1,054,300, with the selective service law providing the desired strength, if necessary.

The group suggested that the states retain control of national guard units as at present.

The national guard now has about 287,000 men, far less than the 375,000 it had last June when volunteers flooded recruiting offices to avoid the draft. Pre-war strength was 185,000 men.

The selective service law was passed by the 80th Congress to boost manpower in the armed services. It was used for a few months by the army, but the navy, marines and air force continued to depend on volunteers.

The army later abandoned draft calls, too, explaining that its budget was not large enough to pay for more soldiers. The draft law, consequently, is still on the books but is not being used.

Welfare Chiseling Hinted In Detroit; Senate Checks Up

Lansing, Feb. 22 (AP)—The state's $57,000,000 appropriation for public welfare and relief was shelved today pending an investigation of reported relief "chiseling" in Detroit.

Senator Elmer R. Porter (R-Blissfield), chairman of the Senate finance committee which is redrafting the appropriation measure, said he had planned to report it soon to the floor of the Senate, but had decided to withhold it to learn what the investigation produced.

Porter said he made the decision after a telephone conversation with Senator Colin L. Smith (R-Big Rapids) chairman of a special Senate committee which has gone into Detroit to investigate the reported relief scandal.

Porter declared Smith reported the committee believed it might produce evidence which would materially affect the Senate's decision on welfare funds.

Traffic Violators Get Break In Fees

Lansing, Feb. 22 (AP)—Motorists who get arrested on traffic violation charges got a break in an opinion of Attorney General Stephen J. Roth today.

Roth ruled that officers arresting drivers for violations on state and local traffic laws are not entitled to fees for making the arrest, and a magistrate is entitled to only a $1.00 fee if the motorist pleads guilty and no trial is necessary requiring the issuance of a warrant.

COLLISION KILLS TWO

Brighton, Mich., Feb. 22. (AP)—Two Mt. Pleasant women were killed and another was injured last night in a car-truck collision on US-16 three miles west of here, state police reported. Sgt. George Malnar of the Brighton post identified the dead as Mrs. Dora L. Campbell, 51, and Mrs. Beulah L. Potter, 47.

Yugoslavia Directs Attack At Albania

Border Troubles Blamed On Tiny Balkan State

By ALEX SINGLETON

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Feb. 22 (AP)—Relations between Yugoslavia and Albania, strained since Marshal Tito's split with the cominform, are growing worse.

Yugoslavia accused her tiny Balkan neighbor yesterday of provoking border troubles.

The official Communist newspaper Borba said Albania had begun a policy of "border provocations" last summer—the time of the split with the cominform (Communist International Information Bureau).

Borba cited a long list of alleged border violations, including 16 occasions when shots were said to have been fired across the border from Albania.

The new charges came amid a growing campaign in the Yugoslav press, emphasizing Albania's alleged lack of gratitude for Yugoslav help before Marshal Tito split with the other Communist nations.

The newspaper Politika said recently that Albanians are virtually starving on a diet of beans as a result of severing trade relations with Yugoslavia. The story said food had almost disappeared, prices have skyrocketed and that the Albanian people are suffering.

Girl, 5, Left Alone; Burns Prove Fatal

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—The parents of five-year-old Priscilla Hudson left her safely asleep in her bedroom when they went away on a short visit yesterday.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Ovel Hudson noticed pieces of Priscilla's burned night gown on the kitchen floor.

Priscilla, found unconscious in the bedroom, died shortly afterwards in a hospital. Either she had played with a match or touched the pilot light of the stove, the parents said.

Passage Of Entire Security Expansion Proposal Unlikely

President Calls For Big Boost In Payroll Tax

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

Washington, Feb. 22, (AP)—Lawmakers gave this answer today to President Truman's request for a vast expansion of the social security system: Some of it may pass—but not the whole thing.

The bill Mr. Truman sent to Capitol Hill yesterday proposed (a) providing direct "home relief" to all needy persons; (b) blanketing 20,000,000 more persons under old age insurance; (c) greatly increasing the benefits; (d) raising—in some cases, tripling—the tax on paychecks and pay rolls.

Levy $96 A Year

Levy was the "home relief" idea which ran into the closest scrutiny in Congress.

Top Democratic managers of security legislation — Chairman Doughton (D-N. C.) of the House ways and means committee and Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate finance committee—took no position on the bill.

The program calls for an increase in payroll taxes from the present $1,800,000,000 for old age and survivors insurance, to about $6,000,000,000.

It would boost individual payroll taxes 10 per cent or more. The tax on a person making $4,800 or more could be increased from a top of $30 to $96 a year.

The expanded insurance program would cover a total of 50,000,000 persons.

Members of Congress said they had no idea how far the unprecedented "home relief" program could go or what the overall cost would be.

Cost Now Billion

Under this phase, the maximum payment in which the federal government would participate would be $50 a month for one person; $50 for the first additional person in a home, and $20 for each additional person. States would contribute 40 to 75 per cent of the cost, according to state wealth.

Such assistance from the federal treasury's general fund, outside the insurance program, now is limited to needy aged persons, the blind and dependent children. It now costs about $1,000,000,000 a year.

(Mr. Truman, in response to a question at his news conference last Thursday, said he never had heard of a proposal to give "home relief" to all poor people.)

Mayor's Proposal Beaten By Voters At Grand Rapids

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—Mayor George Welsh tasted defeat in the voters' apparent rejection Monday of a proposal which enjoyed his backing.

By a close vote to 6586 to 6510 a proposal that the city get along with a single tax assessor was defeated.

Unless there is a challenge and the decision is reversed, the city will go along on its three assessors system.

Two companion proposals, however, were approved.

One sets up a five-man board of review to be named by the mayor and which will act independently of the city commission. It was approved, 6836 to 5641.

The other changes assessors' representation on the board of supervisors.

Heretofore all three assessors have been named to the board. Now it will be but one, named by the commission, along with the city manager and city attorney.

BANKERS HEAR H. P. LINDSAY

Bank Study Conference Closes Here

Bank officers and other personnel are helping both the community and their own business institutions when they participate actively in civic affairs, Harold P. Lindsay, former secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, told Upper Peninsula bankers at their study conference banquet at the Delta hotel last night. His topic was: "What the Public Thinks of Banks and Bankers."

Mr. Lindsay gave the principal address on the banquet program in the absence of Dean J. O. Christianson of the University of Minnesota, who was grounded in Minneapolis on account of poor flying conditions. He had planned to fly from Minneapolis to Green Bay, Wis., and make the rest of the trip to Escanaba by automobile.

The bankers closed their two-day conference here this afternoon after listening to a luncheon talk by Dr. Paul McCracken of the University of Michigan, on "The Business Outlook." Dr. McCracken said the postwar readjustment is now in progress, but he added there is no evidence that there will be any marked recession. He predicted, however, that competition will be keener and the time has come when better salesmanship and services are needed to get business.

Speakers during the two-day meeting included William R. Chapman, vice president, Midland National bank, Minneapolis; W. G. Coapman, Milwaukee, secretary of Wisconsin Bankers association; Clarence H. Lichtfeldt, comptroller, First Wisconsin National Bank, Milwaukee; H. A. Kellow, South Range; Harold E. Asplin, vice president of National Bank of Detroit; Carl G. Nelson, Escanaba; Wm. Warmington, Escanaba; E. L. Pearce of Marquette; and Carroll Gunderson, secretary of A. B. A. Credit Policy Commission, New York City.

"What the public wants to know about banks is the men who manage and control the banks," said Mr. Lindsay in his talk.

He explained many bankers have been so busy with the job of rebuilding business and their community and overcoming the effects of the last depression that thy have failed to pay the necessary attention to public relations. Bankers have been sometimes too aloof and have been inclined to have the public seek them instead of going out to seek the public, he added.

"A bank should ally itself with every worthwhile community enterprise," said Lindsay. "It is good for the community and good business for the bank."

The general public understands that a bank cannot make all loans that are requested, but it expects cordial treatment at all times, Mr. Lindsay continued. Oftentimes the refusal of loan has proven to be beneficial to the applicant, the speaker pointed out, and the customer has no criticism of the bank when he feels he has received fair and courteous treatment.

The importance of explaining banking policies in an understandable way to the public was emphasized by Mr. Lindsay. In conclusion, he asserted that it is necessary to erase many public misconceptions about banking, for not to do so might eventually mean the substitution of governmental banking and a political spoils system for the private banking system of today.

Seven Democratic Candidates To Make Tour Of Peninsula

Detroit, Feb. 22 (AP) — An 82-county itinerary was announced today for the seven Democratic candidates for state office in the April 4 election.

State Democratic Chairman Hicks G. Griffiths said the trip will start Thursday at Pontiac and wind up March 20 with stops at Lapeer, Imlay City, Romeo, Richmond, New Baltimore, Algonac, Marine City, St. Clair and Port Huron.

The last two weeks before election will be devoted to speeches in Wayne county and to re-appearances in Washtenaw, Monroe, Oakland and Macomb counties, Griffiths said.

Candidates making the trip are John H. Mc Carthy, of Detroit and Mt. Clemens, nominee for state highway commissioner; E. Burr Sherwood of Stambaugh, for state superintendent of public instruction; Rosa Falk, Detroit, and Joseph Arsulowicz, Grand Rapids, for regents of the University of Michigan; James T. Bolan of Adrian, for a member of the state board of education, and Dr. Connor D. Smith, Standish, and Harvey C. Shetzel, Mt. Clemens, for members of the state board of agriculture.

The itinerary:

Feb. 25 — Grayling, Gaylord, Perry, Sault Ste. Marie.

Feb. 26—Manistique, Gladstone, Escanaba.

Feb. 27 — Menominee, Iron Mountain.

Feb. 28—Crystal Falls, Caspian, Stambaugh, Iron River, Ironwood.

March 1—Ontonagon, Houghton, L'Anse, Marquette.

March 2—Munising, Newberry, Cheboygan.

ROBERT LOSES PRIMARY RACE

Hughes, Gustafson And Holmes Nominated

Two incumbent supervisors were renominated and one was defeated for nomination yesterday by the voters in primary contests in three of Delta county's 14 townships.

In Escanaba township, Jovite Robert, incumbent, received 80 votes, and his opponent, Henry Hughes, polled 117 votes. Hughes received the nomination and his name will appear on the ballot for the officer of supervisor in the biennial spring election in April.

Harold Gustafson of Ensign, incumbent, and chairman of the county board of supervisors, was renominated following a hotly contested primary in which there was opposition for several Ensign township offices.

Gustafson received 141 votes to 88 for David Constantino for supervisor. Andrew Sundberg, incumbent, polled 137 votes to win the nomination over Julius Papineau, who received 91 votes in the race for member of the Ensign township board of review. Maurice Shane and Harry Froberg, incumbent justices of the peace, received 144 and 130 votes respectively, to 118 for Rudolph Novack. Henry Lundberg, parks and highway commissioner for Ensign township, received 198 votes, winning renomination over Dan Pearson, who polled 8 votes.

One of the principal campaign issues in the Ensign township primary was the road and parks program.

In Cornell township Fred Holmes, incumbent, polled 61 votes to win renomination over Loren Barron, who received 42 votes, and Maurice Harrison, 21 votes. Holmes, 81 years old, has been active in Cornell township affairs for many years.

Thomas Jefferson, in 1801, was the first President of the United States to be inaugurated in Washington, D. C.

School Problems At Hermansville Discussed By 200

Hermansville, Feb. 22—Confidence in Hermansville's ability to stage an "economic comeback" and maintain a high school "worthy of the community" was expressed at an open meeting of the Hermansville school board attended by approximately 200 residents here Sunday afternoon.

The meeting was described as "one of the best and most fruitful community gatherings held in Hermansville in many years." A committee of 15 was appointed to study school and community resources and report at a meeting tomorrow night.

Among those who expressed confidence and faith in their community to maintain and improve its educational facilities were W. J. Anderson, lifelong resident and school board member for 26 years; I. Sutherland, John Duca, Andrew Vescolani, John Dani and Bert Voscolani.

A full discussion of Hermansville school problems was held. Among the speakers were Mrs. Marchaterre, school board president, who said it was the desire of the board to keep the public informed about education trends; Superintendent of Schools Wells, L. T. Doran, R. Marcoe, Mrs. Hull and L. Lacasse, school board members.

Superintendent Wells traced the growth of the Hermansville high school from 1925 when it was placed on the accredited list of the University of Michigan.

Marcoe denounced the "sit back and wait" policy and recommended a "be prepared" program geared for overcoming school problems as they develop.

Miracle Kid Again Gets Year To Live; Still Optimistic

Hialeah, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP) — David Dempsey's seventh birthday on March 11 looms as the most important thing in his young life today—as well it may be.

The plucky, smiling lad has been given a year to live by the doctors.

But it's not exactly a new experience for the sandy-haired, bright-eyed youngster. On two previous occasions he recovered when his case was thought hopeless.

Neighbors call David "The Miracle Kid" with good reason.

First he suffered from a malady which some doctors said was a form of leukemia and they gave him a year to live. He recovered.

Then in 1947 he was struck by an automobile and hovered between life and death with a fractured skull, brain concussion and fractured leg. He recovered from that too.

Now his mother, Mrs. Mabel Palmer, says stomach adhesions are blocking his blood supply, apparently as a result of the automobile accident. He's had three operations and a section of his intestines is to be removed in another operation.

Expectant Mother Slain With Rusty Knife At Seattle

Seattle, Feb. 22 (AP)—An expectant mother awaiting the birth of her third child was slashed to death with a rusty butcher knife yesterday moments before a policewoman stopped at her home on a routine call.

Officers called by the policewoman, Norma Alex, arrested the slain woman's husband, Donald E. Mervyn, 39, unemployed millworker and former inmate of two state hospitals.

Mervyn is being held without charge. Det. Capt. Richard Mahoney said he has signed a rambling statement admitting the killing "because it was either her or me."

Mervyn's wife, Ruth Constance, 35, died in a shower stall with her throat cut in six places. Her two young children lay in their beds a few feet away.

Miss Alex said she had been sent to the Mervyn home at the request of neighbors who knew Mrs. Mervyn had been alone since her husband disappeared last Thursday. Her third child was expected momentarily.

South Haven Hotel Owner Accused Of Whipping Daughter

South Haven, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP) —Don F. Nichols, 41, proprietor of the Hotel Nichols, 201 Center street, South Haven, demanded examination and was released in $1,000 bond when he was arraigned in justice court this morning on a charge of felonious assault on a minor child.

Nichols is accused of horsewhipping his 15-year-old daughter, Dorothy, Monday evening after accusing her of telling a falsehood.

Compaint against Nichols was signed by Chief of Police Don Hardy, who said the girl staggered into the city police station at 9:15 o'clock in a hysterical condition.

Chief Hardy said officers assisted the child to a chair, where she sobbed out a story of having been beaten.

Poice took the girl to a hospital where she was examined by a physician. The child, according to Chief Hardy, had welts and bruises on her back, shoulders, legs and face. Her lip was cut and badly swollen

Escanaba's 'Queen Of The North'

MISS JEANNE GROOS RECEIVES CROWN—Winning the coveted title, "Queen of the North," in competition with 10 other queens of Upper Peninsula communities — Newberry, Houghton, Iron Mountain, Ironwood, Ishpeming, Marquette, Negaunee, Ontonagon, Gladstone and St. Ignace, Miss Jeanne Groos, 20, beautiful blonde and blue-eyed daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Q. Groos, of Escanaba, is shown here receiving her crown at the U. P. winter carnival in Newberry. Glen MacDonald, editor of the Bay City Times, is placing the crown on Jeanne's head. The Escanaba queen is 20 years old, a graduate of Escanaba high school and a former student at the College of St. Catherine in St. Paul, Minn. She has been skating for 12 years and has appeared in nine consecutive Escanaba ice revues and many other shows throughout the Upper Peninsula. Jeanne says her other favorite sports are skiing and swimming. For two summers, she received professional figure skating instruction in St. Paul and since last April, she has been training as a member of the Hiawatha Skating club in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Jeanne was sponsored by the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and her chaperone was Mrs. James Degnan, of Escanaba, who said that Jeanne made a "wonderful impression" on everyone she met during the winter carnival and as a special guest at the Ishpeming ski jumping tournament last Sunday. She spoke over the public address system and radio at Ishpeming and was guest of honor at the ski jumpers' dinner following the tournament. After being entertained at the Iron Mountain ski meet this weekend, she will continue to prepare for participation in the Hiawatha Skating club ice revue in the American Soo, where she will appear as "Queen Jeanne." Judges at the U. P. winter carnival were Miss Flora Smith, of Munising; Robert Furlong, administrative secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council, Lansing, and Ebb Warren, Michigan conservation department photographer, Roscommon.

About 400 Attend Meeting On Polio Threat At Powers

About 400 persons from the Powers-Spalding area, where eight cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in the past eight months, met last night in the town hall where information on polio was presented by Dr. E. J. Clark of Powers, Dr. William Harrison of the Delta-Menominee health district, and Joseph Ball of Menominee, health district sanitarian.

No action was taken toward closing the schools or banning public meetings in the area. One death from polio occurred last fall, and three cases from the area are now receiving treatment at the children's clinic in Marquette.

The people were supplied with information on the responsibility of the individual in controlling spread of the disease, and the responsibility of the people as a group. Good sanitation, healthful living, and the need for summoning a doctor when polio is suspected were stressed in talks to the group.

There have been only two cases of polio so far reported in Delta county, both from the city of Escanaba.

Russians Deport American Woman Writer As A Spy

Moscow, Feb. 22. (AP) — Anna Louise Strong, American newspaperwoman charged by the Russians with being a spy, has been deported from the Soviet Union.

The Soviet Press carried a brief announcement this morning, saying "The arrested American woman journalist A. Strong was deported from the U. S. S. R."

The brief announcement did not state where she was deported.

Miss Strong's arrest was announced in the Moscow press Feb. 15.

Two days after her arrest the Soviet ministry of foreign affairs confirmed to the U. S. embassy in Moscow that she had been arrested for spying and "subversive activities" and would be deported.

Miss Strong, 64-year-old writer, has consistently expressed a pro-Soviet point of view in her prolific literary efforts. She has been in Moscow most of the time for the past 28 years, during which time she wrote many books and articles.

Passage Of Entire Security Expansion Proposal Unlikely

The new bill proposes one other departure: Disability insurance, under which employes covered by old age insurance would get short-time sickness benefits.

Doughton introduced the president's legislation. But he told reporters he did this at Mr. Truman's request and that he is not sponsoring the bill.

Like Doughton, some top Republicans—including House GOP Leader Martin and Senator Millikin (R-Colo.)—declined comment on the measure.

But Rep. Taber (R-N. Y.), who guided appropriation bills when Republicans controlled Congress, had this to say:

"As far as the social security act goes, if the people want to tax themselves double, that's one thing; but I'm not in favor of taxing the people generally to pay any more gratuities to anybody unless it is a direct obligation of the government."

Other members of Congress, talking informally, expressed partacular doubt as to the enactment of the home relief program. They foresaw strong objections, too, to increasing taxes on wages and salaries.

The president will send legislation to the capitol later for a national health insurance program and for expansion of unemployment compensation. There are some estimates that the health program, with the government paying doctor bills, would mean about $6,000,000,000 in payroll taxes.

President Truman recommended boosting the present 1 per cent payroll tax for social security, collected from employes' pay and employer's payroll, to 1½ per cent each next July 1 and to 2 per cent next January 1, with the tax to be applied against the first $4,800 of a worker's income instead of the present $3,000.

The contribution rate of the self employed to be brought into the program would be 2¼ per cent.

Benefits $150 Monthly

Here are the main provisions of the bill:

1. The old age and survivors insurance program would be expanded to include a wide range of workers not now covered such as farmers, small businessmen, doctors, lawyers and other self-employed persons, domestic service workers, and federal employes not covered under a federal retirement plan.

2. Maximum insurance benefits, upon retirement, would be increased from the present $85 to $150.

3. The retirement age for women would be reduced from 65 to 60; for men it would remain at 65.

4. A retired person could receive $50 a month in earnings without loss of his benefits—instead of $15.

5. All needy persons would get direct federal grants, instead of just needy aged, the blind, and dependant children, as at present. Such payments—with the federal government and the state each chipping in a share—would go as high as $100 for a man and his wife and $20 for each additional person in the family.

6. Standards of assistance would continue to be determined by the states. But federal aid would be extended on a basis of per capita income in the states. States with the lowest per capita income would get the largest shares of federal aid.

Drunk Driver and Car Owner Fined

Robert Foley and Arnold J. Parrette of Cedar River pleaded guilty yesterday afternoon in Justice Henry Ranguette's court to violations of the traffic laws and paid fines of $50 and costs each.

Foley pleaded guilty to operating Parrette's auto while under the influence of intoxicating liquor, and Parrette was charged with permitting a person under the influence of liquor to drive his car.

The Parrette car was involved in a collision with another car driven by Harlan C. Dahl of Bark River Rt. 1. The accident occurred early Sunday morning near the Dells. No one was injured.

Marshall Fund Cut Opposed By Hoffman

European Recovery Vital To U. S. Business

Philadelphia, Feb. 22. (AP)—Paul G. Hoffman last night took to task those who would slash the $5,580,000,000 the administration seeks to run the Marshall plan for 15 more months.

"It would be penny wise and pound foolish," the economic cooperation administrator said at a Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce dinner. He was given the chamber's William Penn award for the nation's "most outstanding contribution to the business or economic life of our country."

Hoffmann declared that without economic recovery in Europe, it won't be possible to reduce multi-billion dollar military expenditures.

American business should realize, he added, "that without the Marshall plan postwar exports would have been a mere trickle."

He said that "The task of bringing exports and imports into rough balance by June 30, 1952 (when the Marshall plan is slated to end) is obviously quite an undertaking—and yet this task must be accomplished if European recovery is to have substance."

Catholic Retreats At Garden Planned For Men, Students

Plans are now being made for a retreat in Marygrove retreat center at Garden for all Catholic men of Marquette diocese, to be held March 25 through March 28.

All men in the Upper Peninsula, regardless of whether or not they are Catholic, are invited to participate in the retreat. Officers of the Knights of Columbus councils have been appointed retreat captains.

Registrations may be made by writing Father David Spelgatti, diocesan director of retreats, in Marquette; Wayne Balmes, Marquette retreat captain; or Rev. James J. Schaeffer, director of Marygrove at Garden.

Co-captains assisting with arrangements for the U. P. retreat, are Henry Croisetierre of Marquette, Dr. R. J. Sanregret of Negaunee, J. Holmgren of Ishpeming and H. Cotey of Munising.

Retreats for Escanaba high school students will be held at Garden on April 1-3 and April 8-10. Registrations can be made by calling Mrs. Stack Smith at 404 or Mrs. Mary Canavan at 2841. Students will leave at 4:30 p. m., Friday, and return Sunday afternoon. Herb Norton of Gladstone will be in charge of transportation.

Father Kenneth Ward will be in charge of retreats for the girls, and Father Francis McKay, Maryknoll father, of Chicago, will be in charge of retreats for boys.

Escanaba men who desire to make the retreat are asked to register with Joseph Lequia of the Escanaba Knights of Columbus. Men of the Baraga council at Iron Mountain, the Menominee, Manistique and Escanaba councils will participate, from March 25-28.

Auto Workers See Bargaining Wedge At General Motors

Detroit, Feb. 22 (AP)—The CIO United Auto Workers today viewed the unfair practices finding against General Motors as a bargaining wedge for their side.

The ruling may help, union sources said, to get a negotiated insurance and pension plan for the UAW-CIO's 270,000 hourly workers at General Motors.

The National Labor Relations Board, in the decision handed down yesterday, declared GM guilty of unfair practice in refusing to discuss a new insurance plan with the union last year.

GM's plan was to have gone into effect Feb. 1, 1948. It was held up, however, when the union went to the NLRB with its complaint.

SWEEPS WIN STRIKE

Berlin, Feb. 22 (AP)—A one-day strike of Berlin's chimney sweeps ended today in partial victory for the sweeps.

The city government promised a pay boast of 11 marks ($3.30) a week. The sweeps now get 55 marks, and had been demanding 77.

Dixie Solons Fight Civil Rights Setup

Compromise May Scuttle Truman's Program

Washington, Feb. 22 (AP)—Talk arose in the House today of a possible compromise which would scuttle most of President Truman's civil rights program in return for repeal of about one-fourth of the Taft-Hartley Labor law.

While party leaders remained silent, both Northern and Southern Democrats gave that version of an agreement as tentatively accepted by Dixie lawmakers, who hold the balance of voting power in the House.

Republicans told of offering—unsuccessfully — this counter-proposal: The GOP House members would vote against the entire civil rights program if the Southerners agreed to help them smash efforts to repeal the Taft-Hartley law.

Under the Democratic agreement, only an anti-lynching bill would get through the House. There would be no action on President Truman's request for anti-poll tax and anti-job discrimination measures. In exchange, the Southerners would vote for a Taft-Hartley repealer which actually would keep "about three-fourths" of the law.

Administration Democrats have made no secret of their concern over the fate of new labor legislation, even after forcing a change in House rules to prevent a Republican - Southern Democrat coalition from bottling up a labor bill in the Rules committee.

Recreation Department Has Difficult Problem

THE TRANSFER of the National Guard company from the U. P. state fairgrounds to new quarters poses a difficult problem for the city recreation department. It also affects the annual ice revue, indoor ice skating and the organized hockey program in Escanaba.

In past years and up to the present the facilities of the exhibition building at the state fairgrounds were made available to the recreation department through a cooperative plan with the National Guard. The military organization paid the rental on the property and half of the fuel bill. The recreation department provided utilities and the other half of the fuel bill.

Now that the National Guard is leaving the exhibition building, the city recreation department will have to decide whether it can finance alone the full maintenance of the building and if so, whether the recreational uses will justify the necessary expenditures.

Present recreational uses of the building apparently are insufficient to warrant the heavy outlay of city recreational department funds that would be necessary. If the department expands the recreational program at the exhibition building, even more funds would be required. The city has reached the maximum that it can justifiably appropriate for recreational purposes, however, so it simply means that any expansion of recreational programming at the exhibition building would necessarily mean a comparable reduction in the program elsewhere.

As pointed out above, the decision that will have to be made is a difficult one. If the changed situation requires abandonment of the exhibition building for recreational purposese, it would be an unhappy development that would jeopardize continuance of the ice revue, indoor ice skating in general and stifle the growth of organized hockey in Escanaba.

Wall Street And Blaney Park

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL of New York, outstanding financial daily, is interested in upper Michigan's resorting facilities as a means of revenue to the district. It has this to say in a front-page article February 10:

"Resort owners attending a recent Blaney Park, Michigan, meeting of the National Association of Tourist Officials stressed the need to give the vacationist more for his dollar. Blaney Park, resort on Michigan's Upper Peninsula, showed the way last season. It cut rates 15 per cent and did a boom trade.

"Vacation resorts are preparing to battle a buyer's market this year," continues The Journal. "More advertising will be one weapon. Atlantic City is considering the diversion of one-tenth of its three per cent luxury tax on hotels, amusements and beverages to step up promotion. California resorts are sponsoring a million dollar advertising bill submitted to that state's legislature.

"A movement to postpone Labor Day to the third Monday in September is spreading. Bills to thus extend the summer vacation season have been introduced in five New England legislatures. Similar measures will be offered in New York and New Jersey."

The Journal says that Florida winter trade is picking up at last, but the season will be a short one this year. Higher priced hotels particularly have been lagging. The Journal could have added that the situation in Miami could be much worse, according to Florida papers, if it were not for the growing South and Central American and Cuban patronage which now spends at least a part of the winter in Miami. The approach of winter in Chile, the Argentine, and Southern Brazil particularly is spending many people north to Florida. It may sound rather fantastic to northerners, but Miami, Palm Beach and some other Florida communities are now preening themselves as summer resorts.

Atlantic Alliance Depends Upon Faith

THE SO-CALLED Atlantic alliance was conceived by the government of the United States as a means of binding together for mutual defense the various countries of Western Europe and North America against unprovoked aggression. The pact obviously is designed to protect democratic countries against an attack from Russia or from Communist invasion directed by Russia.

Drafting of the treaty has been complicated by the fact that the United States constitution prevents an advance commitment by this country to go to war. That right is specifically reserved to Congress, as it should be.

The objectives of the Atlantic alliance, however, can be obtained without sacrificing the prerogative of the American Congress to decide when and if the United States will go to war. Our problem will be to write a treaty that will provide the greatest assurance of security to our allies and the greatest deterrent to aggression by our potential enemies within the framework of the American constitution.

Specifically the Atlantic alliance will provide a moral obligation by this country to go to the aid of any of its allies subject to aggression. The final determination must necessarily be left to Congress. In effect, the treaty's strength is dependent upon the faith that friendly powers may have in the sanctity of the American promise of aid. The experience of the past would indicate that this should be promise enough for any nation. The American people have never welched on an agreement.

Washington Foresaw Dangers Of Dictatorship

FOR ALMOST three-quarters of his life George Washington was the subject of a British crown which still granted considerable power to its monarchs. He was a soldier in the service of those monarchs. And even when he assumed the leadership of the new self-governing republic in America, it was in a world where absolutism was still the accepted and usual form of government.

It would have been easy for Washington, had he been a lesser man, to perpetuate himself in office. He was not only the first president of the United States, but the only one chosen unanimously. Though bitter political differences developed among those around him, his place in the public esteem was high and secure.

The spirit of independence in Washington's America was intense. But the spirit of democracy as we define it today was not unanimous. Considering the environment and education and habits of Americans so recently British, it scarcely could have been. Further, there was no constitutional limit put upon the president's tenure of office.

So Washington might have made himself dictator or even king. But with a wisdom prophetic in its depth of vision, he did not. At the end of two terms he retired from office. In doing so he renounced the theory of the indispensable man. In doing so he proclaimed his faith in the principle of self-government.

He relinquished the presidency at a time when the infant republic was still struggling for recognition and survival. And his departure gave evidence of his belief that the American republic, in infancy or maturity, in weakness or strength, would find within itself the leadership that would guide it to growth and greatness.

Today the wisdom and faith of Washington are remembered in a world of new abolutism—a world of Stalin and Franco and Peron and, until recently, of Hitler and Mussolini. It is a world in which millions have accepted the loss of liberty and the onerous yoke of tyranny in exchange for an escape from responsibility.

Such a bargain is not for the American people. It never has been. Only once, in time of grave crisis, has a president sought and the people granted a longer period in office than the two terms Washington chose. Now, as a tangible evidence of the abiding power of Washington's example, Congress has asked the people, through their 48 legislators, to sustain by law the first president's renunciation of the theory of the indispensable man.

Half the necessary legislatures have already ratified the proposed 22nd Amendment, which would limit any president to two terms in office. It is likely that, in the five remaining years allowed, the amendment will be put in force.

If that happens, then the country will have decided that while there have been many military heroes, there has been only one Washington, and that the instinctive wisdom that guided him had best be put into law lest some future generation choose and support a president who will yield to the temptation which Washington spurned.

Take My Word For It . . Frank Colby

MORE ABOUT THE "YOO" IN THE WRONG WORDS

Much remains to be done in stamping out one of the silliest pronouncing errors ever to hit the airways—that of sounding the erroneous long "u" (yoo) in words in which it should never occur.

We hear "afternyoon" for afternoon, "tyoor" for tour, "tyoo" for to, too, two, "dyoo" for do, "cyool" for cool, "syoop" for soup, "nyoodles" for noodles, "blyoo" for blue, "glyoo" for glue, ad nauseam.

Of course such pronunciations are absurdly wrong; and they would be amusing but for the fact that many listeners think (erroneously, of course) that if a pronunciation is heard on the radio is must be accepted as correct. Ignorant broadcasters, therefore, have the power of passing on their ignorant pronunciations to large numbers of persons, many of whom are impressionable youngsters.

Now comes Fred Waring, whom I consider as one of the finest orchestra and choral directors on the air. He has recently picked up this insane "yoo" business, and is regaling us with "dyoom" for doom, "syoon" for soon, "nyoon" for noon! Any day now I expect to hear him announce that the next number on the program will be "In The Evening By The Myoonlight." Or perhaps "Myood Indigo."

It's incredible that a man of Waring's attainments (and certainly he is not illiterate) should be guilty of the inexcusable "dyoom, syoon, nyoon" idiocy. But don't take my word for it. Tune in and hear it for yourself.

(And be sure to clip this column, readers. You'll know what to do with it.)

* * *

Here are additional words in which the "yoo" sound should never be heard. Be sure to pronounce them with the "oo" sound as in "boot, food": blue, brew, chew, crew, drew, flew, fluent, fruit, glue, grew, include, judicious, June, prune, rude, rule, screw, threw, through, true, truant.

Radio's influence on the speech of America is tremendous. And, generally speaking, its influence is very beneficial, for the average professional broadcaster is setting us a good example to follow. This is all the more reason why we listeners should and must smack down the occasional broadcaster with the crack-pot pronunciations.

Spying No Job For Amateurs

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington.—During World War II intelligence reports out of enemy Germany were often amazingly accurate. At times the most secret plans of Hitler and the Nazi high command were transmitted to London.

Childs

The chief reason was the extraordinary network of professional agents developed by the British intelligence service in Germany through the years. There was also the fact that many courageous Germans hating the Nazis and all they stood for, risked torture and death to try to send out vital information. As a British cabinet member expressed it to me in a conversation in London during the war:

"Why shouldn't our intelligence out of Germany be good? Some of our agents are the third generation of the same family working for us."

That is to say that German grandfather, father and son were each in turn British agents. That is the achievement of a professional intelligence system which, when all the romantic nonsense is stripped away, is a dirty, mean, secret business that most governments regard as necessary at the present level of human development.

NO AMATEUR'S JOB

In releasing the hitherto secret Tokyo spy report the Department of the Army seemed to me to show a basic confusion. Spies are not caught by whipping up public fear and suspicion. Counter-espionage, the business of blocking and defeating spies planted by an enemy or a potential enemy, is also a highly professional job in which amateurs are likely to do more harm than good.

The authors of the Tokyo spy report express admiration for the Canadian spy inquiry and the report that came from the Royal commission. But the two documents could hardly be more unlike. The Canadian report consists largely of testimony given by witnesses before the commission, with conclusions stated briefly and unemotionally.

The report from Tokyo made public by the Department of the Army is based on second-hand and unverified sources, chiefly the statements of convicted German and Japanese spies prior to their execution. It is written in a florid style with highly editorialized comments about official United States policy.

The American army officers who put together the Tokyo document apparently felt it was their mission to arouse the public in this country to a sense of danger. After the Canadian report, with its grim and unmistakable warning, that hardly seems necessary.

In fact, it has positive dangers. The impulse in many state legislatures is to create local legislative committee to hunt out subversive activities. Such committees are likely to go on their hunt with even less discrimination and caution than the House un - American activities committee in Washington and thereby they may do great injustices without contributing to the national security in any practical or direct way.

RUSSIA HAS HEAD START

As the Canadian report made abundantly clear, Soviet Russia has a head start in the spy business. Within the Communist parties in each country are fanatical individuals who have transferred their loyalties to Soviet Communism and who engage in espionage not for pay but out of devotion to the fountainhead of Communism in Moscow.

But even apprehending this type of spy seems to me to be a highly professional undertaking, which should not be entered into by those unable to distinguish between disloyal acts and thoughts which may be outside the accepted and conventional pattern. As we are fond of proclaiming to the world, freedom of thought and freedom of expression are two qualities that distinguish ours from a totalitarian society.

A fascinating and little known book, "The Fourth Seal," by Samuel Hoare, describes the British secret service mission in Russia in 1916 and '17. Hoare (now Viscount Templewood), the head of the mission, relates how every government department in Russia under the czar, had its own espionage service which often devoted most of their time to spying on each other.

He tells of the "cover" he used in obtaining information and he also ventures to give a thumbnail sketch of the director of Britain's world-wide secret service. Even though that director had long since retired, the author is careful not to give his name.

The professional intelligence service is reported to have been shocked by these indiscretions which violated the strict code of secrecy. According to one report, most of the edition was bought up by the secret service and it is today almost impossible to obtain a copy. In other words, in view of the most successful secret service in the world this is a professional business which must be kept strictly within professional confines. That is a lesson some American officials would do well to learn.

NOW IN FLORIDA—This column has previously presented one installment in the saga of the sailing Ericksons of Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Erickson and family. They left Escanaba last fall in the 40-foot ketch America, sailed to Chicago, thence through the canal and the Illinois river to the Mississippi. We heard from them last at New Orleans. Today they are at Big Lagoon, Fla., near Pensacola. Friends of the Ericksons may address mail to them at Tarpon Springs, Fla., care of general delivery.

Before we let Ed Erickson take up his story, we should tell you that they plan to winter in Florida and sail next spring up the Atlantic coast to Maine. There they will spend the summer, returning to Escanaba next fall via the Hudson River, Erie canal, and Great Lakes.

* * *

SAVES A LIFE—Let's let Ed Erickson take up the story.

"New Orleans, where we expected to spend two weeks, held our interest for two months, and we really hated to leave. The family attended a Shrine Krew Carnival Ball, one of the many held in preparation for the Mardi Gras.

"On the evening of Feb. 2 the America was ready for travel the following morning. Young Freddie made the dock rounds with the night watchman, with whom he had made friends. The boy's sharp ears picked up a call for help and lead them to the discovery of yacht captain, Pat Reynolds, in the water near his boat. Freddie ran to get me and with the night watchman we got Reynolds back on the dock to safety. The night watchman had not heard his calls for help and so Freddie's keen hearing was credited with saving a life."

* * *

TIDE AND TROUBLE—"Next morning was cloudy and windy. We cast off at 7:20 a. m., all sails set for the run through Lake Pontchartrain to the entrance of the Rigolets. After passing through two bridges, a narrow dredged canal led from Pontchartrain to the entrance of the Rigolets and at that point the fog blotted out all the world around our ship.

"We dropped anchor and my good wife cooked up a chicken dinner for the crew. Two hours later the fog lifted and we made our way to the entrance of Lake Borgne and dropped hook for the night.

"The next morning the tide was tearing out and we found ourselves aground. After much sweating and work trying to kedge off, we gave the matter up and rowed over to the railway bridge and walked a half mile into a little village for something to smoke."

* * *

MEET A TRAPPER—"Returned to the boat and found that by 5 p. m. the tide had come in and we moved out near Hog Island to a better mooring. We all piled into the dingy and rowed over to the island where we made friends with a lone trapper named Dan Favre. About 9 p. m. we left to row out into the fog to find our floating home. Freddie was happy over the muskrat pelt that Dan had given him. It was spooky trying to find the America in the grey mist. We continued to lay at inchor the following day, fog bound."

* * *

SALT WATER—"Sunday morning it was cloudy but visibility was fair and the railway bridge opened to let us through—into the first salt water leg of our trip.

"Again the fog closed in but we continued cautiously on toward Gulfport, Miss., making generous use of the lead line. In the afternoon, still shrouded in fog, we dropped the hook. That night at 12:30 p. m. my wife roused me. The fog had lifted and lights along the shore revealed us a mile west of Gulfport harbor.

"Next morning we entered the yacht harbor, a fisherman guiding us through the narrow channel. The hospitality here was wonderful. At a baker shop we bought salt-rising bread, and this, with the basket of blue crabs we caught, and the gift of eight pounds of shrimp, let us set a fine table."

* * *

LAYING OVER—"Now we are laying at anchor in Big Lagoon, a peninsula of white sand separating us from the pounding surf of the Gulf of Mexico. We are 12 miles from Pensacola.

"The Diamond family live on shore north of us, a short row from our boat. They are very hospitable and would like to have us stay, but tomorrow we sail over to Pensacola to meet Harold Sparks jr., who is a navy aid student here. Sparks sr., was assistant superintendent at Gladstone for some years, now superintendent at Stevens Point. He is my wife's brother.

"Sail boat cruising is very different from land travel. It has provided us with experiences we could get in no other way. Most of the time it has been a very wonderwul experience. Got on the scale the other day—and found I had lost 40 pounds. We expect to reach Carrabelle in a week and will make our first leg across the gulf to Tarpon Springs—150 miles of open-water sailing.'

INTO THE PAST

Ten Years Ago

Escanaba—Miss Natalie Herrick and Miss Harriet Rask left yesterday to attend a meeting in Detroit, on special education.

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Smith are leaving shortly on a Pacific cruise to Australia. Accompanying them will be Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Kitchen, who will go to Honolulu, and Mr. and Mrs. George N. Harder who will leave Saturday and meet the group in California.

Manistique—Mrs. Charles Underwood has left for Lower Michigan where she will visit several Pythian Lodges.

Gladstone—Donald Gazlay, who has been attending the University of Michigan in An Arbor, has arrived to visit with his parets, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gazlay.

Twenty Years Ago

Escanaba—Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Rasmussen have left for Marshaltown, Wis., where they will make their home.

Escanaba— Frank Vogt, who has been employed at St. Francis hospital, left today for New York City, where he will meet his fiancee, Miss Elsa Heldausen, who is arriving from Dusseldorf, Germany. They will be married in New York and return to make their home here.

Gladstone—Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Benedict have arrived from Winnepeg Manitoba, Canada, to visit here with Mrs. Benedict's sister, Mrs. J. D. Staple.

Roving Reporter
By Hal Boyle

Athens, Ga., (AP)—Sometime, somewhere, an oak tree is going to decide to grow back into an acorn again.

It's going to do it just for the heck of it—just for fun. It's going to do it just because it suddenly decided there's more pleasure in growing young than there is in growing up.

And there is.

Trying to grow younger gracefully has been a lifeling hobby with me. At least it has been ever since I discovered the prime cause of civilization is it tends to make people old before their time. But why should anybody ever grow old inside?

The oldest people today are the young people. They are a sad people, too, in a way that only old young people can be sad.

This has been impressed upon me a-new by a weekend attendance at the Georgia Press Institute here, home of the University of Georgia. I felt a curious kinship with the students here, because meeting and talking to them brought back memories of a time when I was as elderly and troubled in spirit as they are. I survived those bitter days—my own four year sentence to college life—and I think they will, too. And years and years later, they will suddenly find themselves younger and happier.

For the heart and mind are the only true calendars of age. There is no fool like an old fool, yes. But there is no greater fool than one who lets himself be old before he buys a tombstone.

What are the real advantages of growing up? If just growing up taught a man or woman to be tolerant, gentle, kind or modest, it would be a wonderful thing. If growing up made a man or woman more selfless and anxious to serve his kind or fashion the world into a fairer garden, it would be a fine thing, too.

That is really growing up. But that kind of growing up usually is measured by suffering or loss rather than the number of candles on a birthday cake. The agony of an instant often adds more stature to the soul than the petty frictions of many years. People generally grow up—or fall apart—after they learn they are going to have to do without, forever, something or some one that meant almost as much to them as breath. Otherwise growing up is pretty much an undignified catalogue of minor physical changes—all bad. You bulge out where you used to bend in. The barber spends less and less time cutting the hair on your head. He spends more and more time weeding it out of your ears. You have fewer dreams—but you walk in your sleep more in the day time.

No wonder kids in college feel sad. The world calls them "The Hope of Tomorrow" because it isn't ready for them—or their ideals—today. They have reached the peak. They are crossing that mystic chasm between childhood and adulthood, that one-way bridge called "growing up."

And once they cross it they will yearn all the years of their lives to go back again to the rainbow morning behind. That is what Wordsworth meant when he wrote "the child is father to the man." The daddy of every man is the boy he himself used to be.

But today, in these odd times, only little children and very old people are wise enough to be young. The children haven't learned hypocrisy, and the old people—well, they don't need it any more.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Grand Canyon, Ariz.—Perhaps I should not admit it, but in all my many wanderings about the U. S. A. I have never been to the Grand Canyon, and it finally took the French Gratitude Train to get me there.

Pearson

The Santa Fe RR invited the French Merci Train visitors to be its guest at the Grand Canyon for a day, and since they have been traveling all hours of the day and night and needed a rest, I urged them to take the day off and see America's greatest scenic sight. My advice was selfish, because I wanted the excuse to go, too.

There are no inside stories to be written about the Grand Canyon, so I am the wrong person to try to describe it. It lies stark and open in its azure magnificence, and you don't need one who is supposed to be an expert at crouching under the White House cabinet table to tell you about it. Anyone with the price of a railroad ticket to get there can sit on its rim and speculate on how the hand of God and nature, working through the ages, carved out this temple of beauty.

Besides, all sorts of writers, with pens more delicate than mine, have described the Grand Canyon. So let me simply be a reporter and describe it as seen through the eyes of four French railroad men who never before had set foot in the U. S. A.

JOKESTER BECOMES SOLEMN

They got their first breathtaking view early in the morning just after rolling out of their Pullman. For about two minutes they gazed down—a mile straight down—to where the muddy Colorado River looked like a dirty ribbon winding in and out of gorges—so small at that distance, it seemed you could step across it. And they gazed fourteen miles across to the gorge on the other side, purple and red and yellow in the morning sunlight; and some 30 miles up the canyon toward the Painted Desert and the Navajo country stretching off toward Utah under a blanket of snow.

"Humph," finally remarked M. Andre Picard, the jokester of the French committee. "I have seen exactly the same thing in France."

"M. Picard," hastily remonstrated polite M. Louis Cast, "is up so early his eyes are only half open. He can see only half the canyon."

By this time we were inside Hotel El Tovar and at breakfast.

"I suppose," continued M. Cast, looking around at the unique mountain lodge furnishings of El Tovar, "that Picard has also seen hotels just as good as this in France."

"Of course," said Picard. "In the French Alps."

"Well, at least here is something you don't have in France," pursued Cast. "Ice Water."

Picard agreed. However, as the day wore on, jokester Picard became more solemn, and at supper, perhaps thinking had taken him seriously, he made a little speech.

"My eyes," he said, "are all the way open now, and I have seen things I never could have seen in France. Like most Frenchmen I thought that all things beautiful were in France, but today I have seen that the most beautiful thing of all is in America. I thank you for helping me to see it."

FRENCHMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Meanwhile, other members of the French committee were busy taking meticulous notes of what they say and heard. And here are random jottings from the diary of a Frenchman during the day at the Grand Canyon:

"Hendrik Van Loon says that all the people in the world could be packed into a box half a mile square. If this box were then dropped into the Grand Canyon it would be so small, relatively, that it would take a searching party to find it. The Colorado River was so named because 'Colorada' means 'red.' The river is so full of silt and gravel that it is gradually washing the lands of Utah, Arizona, Wyoming and Colorado away. One million tons of silt and gravel come down the river every day. This is enough to fill a train of gondola cars stretching for 300 miles. (American gondola cars, not French. The American cars are three times bigger.) So much silt comes down the Colorado River that the lake front of Boulder Dam will eventually fill up. Perhaps that is better than having all the good American soil wash down to Mexico—which is what happened before Boulder Dam was built.

WILD DONKEYS CHASE DEER

"The deer are almost tame. We saw several come close to the automobile while we unloaded baggage in front of the hotel. They came up to the hotel for garbage at night. There are so many wild donkeys in the canyon that they are running the deer out. Prospectors turned their donkeys loose in the canyon in the old days, and they are now so numerous that one year 500 had to be shot to protect the deer. The snow is four feet deep around the rim of the canyon, but there is no snow at the bottom. It's too hot down there. The snow melts before it hits the earth. The bottom of the canyon is so far down that the difference in temperature between the top and the bottom is about the same as the defference in temperature between Canada and Mexico.

"Seven times the Grand Canyon area was a salt sea. This is shown by the sea-water fossils geologists have discovered. In addition, the area was also a fresh-water sea, as shown by fresh-water plant fossils. Geologists figure that the land rose from a low desert to a high plateau, as at present. Then the river cut through the plateau, taking nine million years to cut the present canyon.

"The Americans are going to have a big battle over the Grand Canyon—a battle of beauty against utility. The utility people want more water for the big western cities and for the irrigation of farm lands. The beauty peopde don't want to take water away from the Colorado River and spoil the canyon."

KIWANIS HEARS ABOUT FISHING

Stanley Lievense Talks At Club Luncheon

The state conservation department is not entirely satisfied with the results it is getting from the planting of legal size trout in Michigan streams, Stanley Lievense, fisheries supervisor at Escanaba, said in an informative talk at the meeting of the Kiwanis club at the House of Ludington Monday noon.

Forty-one streams in the state have been studied to determine the results of legal size trout planting, Lievense said. Twenty-five per cent of the hatchery-reared fish showed up in the anglers' creels, the remaining catches were native trout.

What happened to the rest of the trout plantings is not fully known, Lievense continued. He said that it is possible some trout died as a result of the change in habitat. Those that were caught, he added, showed up in the fishermen's creels in most instances within two to four weeks after the plantings.

"Only one out of nine anglers benefited from the plantings, the studies showed," Lievense said. "The lucky ones were those who went fishing shortly after the plantings were made."

Lievense estimated it costs the state conservation department $1.40 for each trout planted. While the hatchery program is being continued, more attention will be given in the future to the improvement of streams so that trout will have a better natural habitat.

The planting of trout in inland lakes, probably offers greater possibilities than streams stocking, the fisheries supervisor said. There are many cold-water lakes in the Upper Peninsula that could be stocked with trout, and he predicted the number of trout lakes in the region would be doubled within a few years.

Lievense discussed the sea lamprey problem briefly. The lamprey, which invade the Great Lakes from the Atlantic ocean via the St. Lawrence river, has become a serious menace to lake trout and is also attacking whitefish and other species. He admitted that no effective means of controlling this parasite has been developed as yet.

"We do not expect to achieve complete control of the lamprey," Lievense continued. "Our only hope is to eventually find a weak spot in its life history to enable us to effect partial control."

Nahma

Valentine Party

Nahma, Mich.,—The sophomore class at the high school entertained the other classes of the junior and senior high school with a party last Monday night. Decorations were in the Valentine motiff. Games and dancing were enjoyed by the group and refreshments in the school dining hall.

During the day each of the grade rooms had their own Valentine boxes and exchanged Valentines.

Woman's Club

Mrs. John Zimmerman and Mrs. William Rogers were the prize winners for the bridge and 500 games played during the social hour at the meeting of the Woman's club last Tuesday evening. After the games lunch was served by the following committee: chairman, Mrs. Eli Bedard, Mrs. Joe Krutina, Mrs. John Schwartz sr., Mrs. William Rogers and Mrs. Henry Gerioux.

Bridge Club

Mrs. Fred Olmsted entertained the Bridge club on Wednesday evening of last week. The club will meet with Mrs. Henry Beauchamp this week. Prizes for the games last week were: first, Mrs. Martin Kousbaugh and both the traveling and honor prizes were won by Mrs. Nels Plude. Mrs. Amos Ritter substituted for Mrs. Henry De Rosier.

Personals

Mrs. Rudy Gereau submitted to an operation for relief from appendicitis at the St. Francis hospital on Friday.

Mrs. Francis Douville of Marquette is visiting here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schwartz sr.

Mrs. James Adams, Mrs. William Brown and Mrs. Robert Adams of Shingleton visited last week at the Marshall Beauchamp home. Mrs. Robert Adams also visited with her mother, Mrs. Nick Denessen on the Isabella road.

Mrs. Herb Foote of Garden was a recent visitor at the Fred Olmsted home.

Mrs. Omer Groleau and Mrs. Eddie Groleau and son Pat of St. Jacques spent Tuesday of last week visiting with Mr. Ed Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Delore Bunno of Gladstone were Wednesday guests at the Ed Johnson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sargent and daughter spent several days last week visiting at the Rudy Gereau home.

Postwar Adjustment Coming-McCracken

The American economy is facing its first real postwar adjustment, Dr. Paul W. McCrcken, school of business administration, University of Michigan, told Upper Peninsula bankers at the bank study conference luncheon at the Delta hotel this noon. Dr. McCracken was introduced by William Warmington, Escanaba, vice president of the Michigan Bankers' association.

Dr. McCracken said in part:

There are two basic evidences of postwar adjustment. First, the price level, measured by the wholesale price index, has declined 11 points since the August peak of 169.5. Second, there has emerged for the first time in the postwar period a definite increase in unemployment.

In January there were 2,700,000 unemployed, an increase of 800,000 over the previous month. This was double the increase from December to January a year ago. Unemployment now is therefore about as high as it reached during the peak of reconversion in early 1946.

These trends are understandably disturbing. Bucking a declining business trend is an extremely tough proposition for any bank or business.

Current developments therefore pose a lot of critical questions. It this another mere temporary hesitation before the resumption of the postwar boom? Is this the prelude to a real business collapse? Can we reap the benefits of a leveling out of prices without going on over into a depression tailspin? What is at the bottom of the present softening of business activity? Are there reassuring aspects of the present business picture?

Reasons For Decline

There are, I believe, fundamental reasons for believing that the present softening of business activity is a real contraction of business and not just a temporary interruption of the postwar price inflation.

1. Consumers are treating their income dollars more prudently. In the first half of 1948 they saved, on the average, about 6 per cent of their income. In the second half spending had been pruned to the point where savings represented almost 8 per cent of income.

The fundamental reason is not that incomes are badly distributed, or corporate profits too large.

The real reason is that consumer inventories of most products have been built back up. From here on consumer buying is based on current demand and not on current demand plus a large wartime backlog.

2. Demand for new houses has been shrinking. The number of new houses begun has declined persistently since May, and is now substantially below last year. The reason is clear. The construction industry has priced itself entirely out of the market for all but the most intense demands. The market for new houses is still large. Whether the construction industry can cut costs to the point where this large potential market can be tapped remains to be seen.

3. Business expenditures on new factory buildings and equipment show signs of tapering off. Capital expansion plans are in many cases approaching completion. Furthermore, it has become progressively more difficult to obtain funds from the money and capital markets. For both reasons some tapering off of these "capital expenditures" seems to be a distinct possibility.

4. Inflationary pressures involved in our huge foreign trade are subsiding. As foreign production recovers, our imports from abroad can be expected to approach a more normal volume. At the same time their abnormal requirements for our exports have been diminishing.

Has Its Bright Side

The business picture is not without its reassuring features.

1. Debts are low relative to income. In the past a contraction of business has frequently touched off the liquidation of top-heavy debts. This has been an important part of many severe recessions—such as 1921 or 1933. Our debts are on a sounder basis now.

2. The postwar boom has not generally been a speculative price inflation. In a very real sense prices have risen in spite of pessimistic expectations about the future. There is thus less danger of a disorganized price collapse than when the boom has been accompanied by an expressively optimistic, speculative, price inflation where people have bet on an indefinite continuation of rising prices.

3. The banking system has never been as sound at the peak of a boom as it is today. Loans generally represent a prudent proportion of earning assets. Holdings of comparatively short-term assets are large. With its enlarged powers to accommodate banks (by lending on any sound asset) the Federal Reserve Banks can act effectively to forestall any general monetary panic—so large a part of our 1931 to 1933 trouble. For these reasons it is difficult to see how a seriously tight money market need develop.

4. More slack in the economy will mean more efficient production, with the possibility of reducing prices to attract demand.

5. Continued high government expenditures will help to sustain the economy. Defense requirements seem to suggest some further increases. Public works expenditures can be expected to rise as cities begin work on badly needed expansions to such services as water systems, sewage plants, and street repairs and extensions.

These reassuring aspects of the business picture should not make us complacent. Whether we avoid serious trouble depends heavily on how hard we try to avoid trouble. Many things can be done.

1. Much can be done through prompt price reductions as improved productivity lowers costs. There is reason to expect considerable room here for thus encouraging demand in the period ahead.

2. More intensive, hard-hitting selling is again becoming essential. In some cases it is a rusty art, in need of some polishing. By and large the mere order-taker will not be very busy in the months ahead.

3. Now is the time for some of those public works projects badly needed but thus far postponed because of the inflation. There is, of course, no more justification now than there ever has been in the past for made-work or leaf-raking.

4. It is essential that we not lose our confidence in the essential soundness of the economy. A sort of pathological panic has been an important part of many recession periods in the past. It would be a pity if, through lack of confidence, what is fundamentally only a shift to more normal operations should be converted into a period of real recession.

I do not believe this is in the cards. We shall feel a bit naked without those comfortable backlogs of orders, but that is the meaning of recrowning the consumer as king. And there is something democratic about an economy where producers must in a very real sense dance to the tune of the freely-expressed preferences of the consumers.

It also stands to reason, however, that after a period of easy jobs and profits and incomes we shall probably feel somewhat more hard-pressed than we actually are.

SCHOOL MEN MEET HERE

Conference Slated For March 6

Between 30 and 40 Upper Michigan school coordinators, principals and superintendents will meet here March 6 for a regional coordinators conference.

John A. Lemmer, school superintendent, and Allan Mathieson, coordinator, are in charge of arrangements and will be hosts for the conference.

High school cooperative training programs and veterans training programs will be discussed.

Hugh Pierce of the University of Michigan, John Harris of the State Board of Vocational Control, Lansing; Tom Ross, Detroit representative of the Federal Bureau of Apprenticeship for the Department of Labor; Lawrence Johnson of the State Board of Control for Vocational Education; and Sam Stobel of Sault Ste. Marie, field representative for the U. S. Bureau of Apprenticeship, are scheduled to attend.

During the conference a dinner meeting will be held in the House of Ludington.

Russians To Attend Peace Rally In U.S.

Delegates To Come From 30 Foreign Nations

New York, N. Y., (AP) — Dmitri Shostakovich, noted Russian composer who has been rebuked in Moscow because his music was not always considered to follow the Communist party line, will visit the United States for the first time next month.

He will be a guest at the Cultural and Scientific Conference for World Peace scheduled by the National Council of the arts, sciences and professions for March 25, 26 and 27 at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel.

Other members of the Soviet delegation are to be S. A. Gerasimov, motion picture producer; A. A. Fadeev, secretary general of the Secretariat of the Union of Soviet Writers; A. I. Oparin, one of the Soviet Union's leading biochemists, and P. A. Pavlenko, novelist.

Dr. Harlow Shapely, director of the Harvard College Observatory, said the aim of the conference here will be "to work toward solutions that will emphasize the ultimate folly of war and the moral appeal of a world united against human poverty, ignorance, disease and baseless suspicion."

In addition to persons from 30 foreign countries, 400 United States educators, scientists, writers, artists and others have been invited.

Hearing Center And Chapters Needed In U. P., Butler Says

"One of the greatest needs in Upper Michigan is for the formation of local chapters of the Michigan association for Better Hearing," Stahl Butler, supervisor for the deaf and hard of hearing of the Office of Vocational Rehabilitation, said in an interview here.

Butler toured portions of Upper Michigan last week and was accompanied by John Groop of this city. He spoke in various schools and conferred with deaf and hard of hearing persons.

"These chapters could sponsor lip-reading classes and social activities for the hard of hearing. Social adjustment is a major factor in rehabilitation for these persons," he explained.

Many of Michigan's principal cities now have these chapters, including Kalamazoo, Detroit, Lansing and Ann Arbor.

A hearing center to provide a testing program for all Upper Michigan counties and adequate follow-up technique was also stressed by the supervisor. Some Upper Michigan counties, according to Mr. Butler, do not have a department of health program and in these little testing is done and not much treatment and care is provided.

"We haven't scratched the surface in looking after the deaf and hard of hearing in Upper Michigan," Mr. Butler said. According to surveys seven per cent of the handicapped reporting to the OVR are acoustically handicapped.

'In handling the hard of hearing, finding them early and providing adequate centers for adjustment to use of the hearing aid are two important factors," Butler stated. "Hearing aids, as the name implies, are only aids to hearing, when at least 50 per cent of hearing ability is present in one ear," he stressed.

"Even with the hearing aid, there is always a need for lip reading. That is why local hearing chapters and a hearing center are so necessary," the vocational supervisor said.

Persons handicapped with hearing difficulties are usually the last to report to the OVR for help, because they are shy and backward. Often, according to the supervisor, they do not want to recognize their handicap.

"Teachers invariably fail to recognize hearing difficulties because a pupil may seem stubborn, stupid or inattentive and the diagnosis is left at that point. Scholarships for teachers are available through the Michigan Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and we wish that more of them would take advantage of the opportunity."

They receive training under this program at Michigan State Normal college in Ypsilanti. Mr. Butler also urged that capable young persons with a desire to work with the deaf can receive training in Michigan, and are often given aid to acquire schooling.

Hearing handicaps are often the result of diseases in which a high fever is present. Among the diseases which may impair hearing are spinal meningitis, measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever.

New sulfa drugs and penicillin according to Mr. Butler, are reducing incidents of hearing loss.

"Recently," he said, "an otologist reported to me that where a few years ago he performed three and four mastoidectomies per week, he now performs them only three or four times a year.

Mr. Butler, who has worked with the deaf and hard of hearing for 25 years, left Saturday to return to Lansing. Prior to joining the Department of Instruction two years ago, he was principal of the school for the deaf in Flint, and worked with the deaf and hard of hearing in the District of Columbia.

Lt. George Breault Flies Transport in Operation Hay Lift

Lt. George F. Breault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Breault of 428 South 14th street, is serving with the Army Air Corps in "Operation Hay Lift."

The Sunday edition of the Minneapolis Tribune carries a picture of Lieutenant Breault in his plane, with sheep and cow heads marking each 10,000 pounds of hay dropped to feed snowbound animals in the Dakotas and other western states. John D. Hannon of Omah, Neb., is in the picture with him.

Lieutenant Breault has been in the air corps more that eight years and served in England and Europe during World War II.

In a recent letter to his parents, he said he flies as much as 10 and 12 hours per day and that the "snow is terrible." Some days, he says, they are not able to fly because of storms.

Mrs. Francis Ames, Seney, Dies Sunday

Munising—Mrs. Francis Ames, 69, of Seney, died at 5:25 p. m., Sunday in Munising hospital. She had been ill several years.

Mrs. Ames was born April 10, 1879 in East Tawas, Mich. Since she has lived in Nahma and elsewhere in Delta County, in Manistique, Jackson, Lansing and Munising.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Earl Wright of Lansing; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Norris of Manistique, and Mrs. Fred Carefelle of Munising, and a grandchild.

The body was taken to Beaulieu funeral home and will remain there until Wednesday when funeral services will be conducted from the funeral home chapel at 9 a. m., by the Rev. Gerald Harrington. Burial will be made in the Lakeview cemetery in Manistique.

Jane Dutton Cast In Civic Theatre Three-act Comedy

Miss Jane Dutton, English instructor of Escanaba senior high school, will play the role of Mrs. Lawrence in the Escanaba Civic Theatre production of "Lady of Letters" on March 4 and 5, it was announced today by Whitney Dixon, director.

Mrs. Gardner Eversole was originally cast for the role, but relinquished it in order to understudy Mrs. Rudolph Bauer for the role of Mrs. McDonald, snobbish litterateur of the show.

Mrs. Bauer submitted to an appendectomy at St. Francis hospital Saturday morning. If her condition permits, she will play the role in the show.

Meanwhile rehearsals of the three-act comedy are continuing as scheduled, with Mrs. Karl E. Gray playing the part of Adelaide Willifer, lead feminine role, in the absence of Mrs. Peter Molinaire. Mrs. Molinaire was injured in a ski fall at Iron Mountain recently and is a patient in St. Francis hospital. Mrs. Gray and Miss Dutton have only two weeks in which to prepare for their performances.

Tickets for the comedy are available at Home Supply company, Gust Asp, Garrard Jewelers, Rose Park Store, and Hansen and Jensen gas station at Ludington and 23rd street. Mail tickets may be had by writing Escanaba Civic Theatre at post office box 31, Escanaba.

The curtain on Friday, March 4, will be held until 9:15 to accommodate shoppers in the city. The Saturday performance begins at 8:15 p. m., in William Oliver auditorium.

The cast for the play rehearses in the junior high school at 7:30 p. m., every night but Saturday this week.

ROTARIANS TO ASSIST YOUTH

Cooperate In Plan For Vocational Guidance

Yuthrotar officers, students of Escanaba senior high school, Monday noon presented to the Escanaba Rotary club a plan for a cooperative program of vocational guidance for high school Juniors and Seniors. The club in discussion indicated its interest in aiding the program and Club President O. V. Thatcher declared the plan workable and worthwhile.

E. E. Edick, senior high school principal, and chairman of the club's Yuthrotar committee, outlined the history of Yuthrotar and its effort to be of service to young people. The cooperative plan of vocational guidance was considered practical service.

Charles Benzinger, Charles Neumeier and Ben Nelson of Yuthrotar explained the vocational guidance program. There will be a central committee composed of four juniors and four seniors, selected by the faculty and the Student Council. It will direct the activities of the group and carry out the program of vocational guidance interviews and cooperative meetings with business and professional men in the various fields.

Business and professional men of the Rotary club will cooperate in meeting with groups of students to assist the young people in deciding on their choice of a future vocation. Included are plans for practical demonstration sessions in shops and offices.

Vocational advice in meetings with a group of students, or with representatives of student groups, will be given by the cooperating Rotarians. Both boys and girls will have the benefit of the vocational guidance program.

Trouble-shooting gallery

SELDOM is there trouble on your telephone line nowadays. But sometimes it does happen! An extra-heavy gale or sleet storm . . . a flood, fire or explosion may temporarily disrupt telephone service for a great many people at one time.

When such serious trouble develops, word is flashed to Michigan Bell "emergency headquarters" in Detroit. Within a matter of minutes, this room becomes a beehive of activity.

At their posts around the table, a General Working Committee assembles and begins a battle against time. Simultaneously, emergency committees in the stricken area swing into action. The object—to knit into one swift-moving team the telephone crews that will restore service at the earliest possible moment.

In rapid-fire succession, telephone calls begin to come in. Reports from the scene give a minute-by-minute account of developments.

Practically the instant the need for men or supplies becomes apparent, the Committeemen arrange to have them dispatched to the trouble spot.

If damages are such that Long Distance calls will have to be rerouted, the Committee works directly with the proper department to establish temporary circuits promptly. If structures and equipment are demolished, the Committee teams up with the engineers to start immediate plans for rebuilding.

No matter how long the emergency may last, the Committee stays right on the job. For these expert trouble-shooters can "be everywhere at once" by telephone . . . saving precious minutes . . . assuring the utmost efficiency in the use of manpower, materials and time.

This is another behind-the-scenes way in which Michigan Bell strives to provide and maintain for you the best possible telephone service at all times.

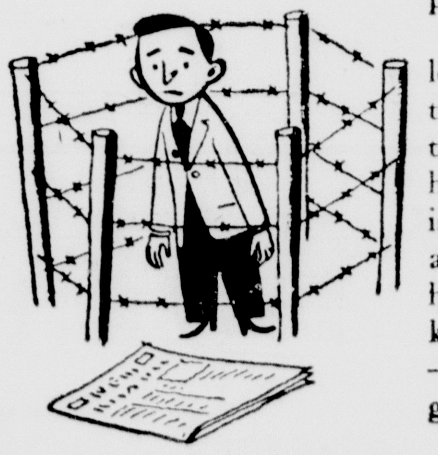
There oughta be a law!

When you pick up a copy of a newspaper you restate your belief in fair play. You express your willingness to let the other fellow get a hearing for his opinion. For opinion is as much a part of the newspaper as fact. Not just the editor's opinion but the opinions of business men and labor leaders, farmers and housewives, public officials and candidates for office—everyone whose opinions make news.

* * *

Some men and women think you should not have this freedom. They believe you should read only one set of opinions—theirs. They think there should be a law limiting what a newspaper can print.



Those whose freedom these self-constituted leaders are aiming to limit are not so much the editors and publishers of newspapers as the readers. They claim that newspapers have too much freedom but what they mean is that you are too free. They don't talk about thought control but that is what they have in mind. They don't trust you with the knowledge of what is going on in the world—even what is happening in your own government.

They know that if they can control what you read, they can control what you know. And when they control what you know, they can control your mind. Under the claim of knowing what is good for you, they want to take over your thinking. Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin used the same technique.

Of course, the newspaper isn't your only source of information. But if the attack on the newspaper is successful, you can be sure that the magazines and books and the radio won't be overlooked. The newspaper happens to be the first target because it is the main source of your information regarding the events and trends about which these men and women want to keep you in ignorance. Once the newspaper is muzzled, the others will be easy.

* * *

If you think your right to know isn't in danger, take the time to read the proposals that are being offered. Apply these recommended press regulations to this newspaper and to the other publications you read including the ones published by your lodge or union or church.

You may agree that you should get less information than you now get and that some super-commission should decide what you should read. But if you don't agree—if you want to protect your right and that of the members of your lodge and union and church to read freely—you will not be taken in by the high sounding resolutions and other adroit devices now being used as the first step towards control. You will refuse to give them your support. You will speak out against them and against those who ask you to help put public knowledge and public opinion in chains.

Your right to know is the key to all your liberties

Legion At Escanaba Now 30 Years Old

Past Officers Honored At Meeting Monday

Looking back 30 years, the Escanaba American Legion and Auxiliary Monday night honored past commanders and presidents of the organization at a joint meeting of Cloverland Post 82 at Auxiliary unit.

Ralph R. Olsen presided as master of ceremonies for post commander C. T. Weir, and briefly summarized the history of the Escanaba Legion, first chartered in 1919. Two charter members, Guy Sullivan and William Ehnerd, were present at the meeting last night.

Olsen then introduced past post commanders and past auxiliary presidents present at the meeting, and each responded with brief talks summing up accomplishments in their terms of office. Past commanders introduced included: Elmer St. Martin, 1921; Harry Compher, 1925-26; Emerson Harvey, 1927; Tom Beaton, 1928; Henry Breault, 1929-30; William Ehnerd, 1930; L. A. Danielson, 1936; Dr. C. J. Corcoran, 1937; John Peltier, 1939; Edward Anderson, 1941; N. P. Thompson, 1942; Cliff Vadnais, 1943; Roy Baldwin, 1944; C. Elmer Olson, 1945; W. J. Perron, 1946; Robert E. LeMire, 1947; Victor Johnson, 1948.

Past Auxiliary presidents presented to the audience were: Mrs. Nora Jensen, first unit president, 1922; Miss Belle Harvey, 1923, 1927; Mrs. Dorothy Boyle, 1934; Mrs. Nancy Petry, 1938, 1939, 1947-48; Mrs. Cordelia Breault, 1940-41; Mrs. Evelyn Schmeltzer, 1942-43; Mrs. Signe Nerbonne, 1944-45; Mrs. Lillian Greis, 1949.

Vocal numbers on the program Monday night were presented by Miss Helen Bink and Frank Hirn. The latter also led the large group of World War I and 2 veterans and Auxiliaries in group singing. A buffet lunch was served, followed by dancing.

Adjutant C. Elmer Olson announced that this year Cloverland post 82 had a membership quota of 604, and with 505 members already paid up for 1949 it was certain that the post would exceed the quota and go to the largest membership in its history.

Ice At Indoor Rink In Excellent Shape

The ice surface at the Escanaba indoor rink is in the best condition it has been all season, Jerome Deloria, recreation supervisor in charge, said this morning in urging more persons to take advantage of the public skating facilities there.

"The Saturday night adult skating parties have been very successful," he said. "We had about 60 out last Saturday and are planning another big one this Saturday.

"But more people should be using the rink on week-night public skating sessions. Adults are invited to come out from 7 to 10 o'clock Wednesday and Friday nights."

Tucker Welcomes Grand Jury Inquiry In Auto Company

Chicago, Ill., (AP)—A Federal grand jury opened an investigation Monday into the activities of Preston Tucker and "certain aspects" of the Tucker Corporation.

Otto Kerner, Jr., U. S. attorney, estimated 100 witnesses will be heard in the month-long inquiry into the fledgling automobile manufacturing company's affairs. It is the corporation's first criminal investigation.

Tucker, himself, commenting on the inquiry, said it "will clear the Tucker Corporation and give it the breath of life it needs."

Among those subpoenaed as witnesses are R. N. Parsons, Jr., Tucker's son-in-law who is a free-lance writer; Mrs. Dorothy Jordan, Tucker's secretary; James E. Tripp and his firm, Russell, Tripp and Neuwerth, Inc., public relations; and Ellis Travers and his firm, Roy S. Durstine, Inc., advertising.

All books and records of the Tucker Corporation and the Ypsilanti Machine and Tool Co., were requested by the government. Ypsilanti Company of Michigan, is owned by Tucker's mother, Mrs. L. C. Holmes.

COMMIES ARE BEING FAVORED

Traffic Violators Get Harder Raps

By ROBERT C. RUARK

New York — All I know is, very next time they drag me off to court on a parking summons or a fractured red-light rap, I am going to kick up an awful holler. I am going to thumb my nose at the prosecutor, challenge the right of the judge to sit on the bench, give the bailiff a hotfoot, kick the cops in the shin, and render a razzberry unto the jury, if any.

Ruark

I know my rights, see. Any time I want to be contemptuous of the court, I got a good solid legal precedent for same, and I can also spit in the sheriff's eye. How do I know the bum is fit to be sheriff? Who was that lug Blackstone? What is a tort? I don't recognize any of that stuff. A penal code may be good enough for the peasants, but us hep kids don't have to hold still for law.

Contempt of court certainly must be permissible in America today, because we have just had five solid weeks of it. The attorneys for the bevy of bull-Commies on trial here have spent better than a month in proving that you can be contemptuous every day, and still walk off un-handcuffed.

They have quarreled with Judge Harold Medina's right to preside, and they have argued lengthily against the jury system. They have been impertinent, irrelevant, and screamingly windy. They have wept, wailed, and insulted the judge, the country, both grand and petit juries, and the integrity of a trial system which is supposed to be the most enlightened in the world. They have disputed the right of a law-officer to wear a gun, and their camp-followers have picketed the court. How contemptuous of a court do you have to get?

Judge Medina has bowed his back continually before these intrepid legal eagles, in some sort of democratic effort to give them full rope. This might be construed as a lesson in tolerance, or even as a sermon against the short-order, shoot-him-quick courts of Mother Russia, but it leaves me cold.

As an ordinary citizen, I claim to be just as good as any Communist, and you know what happens to old Homer Q. Sapiens, citizen, when he goes to court. Bang goes the gavel. Order in the court. Howjurplead, guiltyrnot? Step down. Stand up. The court sentences you to . . .

But Judge, I . . .

Shaddap. Yuh wanna be held in contempt?

But I . . .

Drag 'Im off. Next case. Howjuh plead? stand down.

Wife Of Bandsman Dorsey Burned As Fire Razes Home

North Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP)—Bandleader Jimmy Dorsey's wife, Jane, 39, was burned seriously Monday in a fire which destroyed their home at Toluca Lake estates.

She was taken to a hospital with burns on her hands, neck and chest.

Frank H. Rothermel, deputy battalion chief, said the fire may have started in a faulty fireplace. Dorsey is on tour.

Kutches-Shea

Spring flowers decorated the altars of St. Joseph's church Saturday morning for the wedding of Miss Ann Elizabeth Kutches, daughter of Mrs. John Kutches, 1607 Stephenson avenue, and William Clevis Shea, son of Mrs. Mary Shea, 1515 North 16th street.

The vows were spoken at a 9 o'clock wedding mass before Father Arnold Thompson. St. Joseph's choir sang the music of the mass with Mrs. Eldridge Baker, soloist. At the offertory Miss Doris Costley sang Rossini's "Ave Maria."

In the bridal party were Rubye Kutches, sister of the bride, who was maid of honor, Margaret Rozich, bridesmaid, Emil Skradski, best man for Mr. Shea and Michael Shea, groomsman.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore white slipper satin, with long tapered sleeves, a marquisette yoke banded and edged with lace and a full skirt which formed a long lace-edged train. Her veil of silk illusion edged with rose pointe was caught to a heart shaped crown of seed pearls. Her jewelry was a four-strand pearl necklace, the bridegroom's gift, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, carnations and sweetpeas with white satin streamers. The maid of honor wore orchid taffeta with a high net yoke, bustle back and full skirt and the bridesmaid wore a like gown of yellow taffeta. The maid of honor's flowers were yellow daffodils and orchid sweetpeas and the bridesmaid carried blue iris and other spring flowers.

Mrs. Kutches wore gray crepe with a corsage of white roses and carnations and Mrs. Shea wore black crepe with a red rose corsage.

Wedding Dinner

A wedding breakfast was served at the bridegroom's home and a dinner for 60 at the home of the bride.

The couple left on a wedding trip, the bride for traveling wearing a beige suit with a black wool gabardine coat and matching accessories. They will live at 1501 Stephenson avenue. The bride, a graduate of St. Joseph's high school is a clerk at Breitenbach's Her husband, an Escanaba high school graduate, is employed by the Hanna Line.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kolar, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fitzgerald and son, Mr. and Mrs. Tellis Gergeon, Iron Mountain, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gouley, Gladstone and Mrs. Marie Herro, Appleton, Wis.

L. MORTENSEN PASSES AWAY

Had Farmed In Gulliver Area Many Years

Lawrence Mortensen, 75, a resident of the Manistique and Gulliver vicinities for the past thirty years, died at Gulliver Sunday. He had been in declining health for the past several years.

Mr. Mortensen was born in Denmark on July 9, 1873 and came to this country about 66 years ago, settling first in Greenville. Later he moved to Chicago, Ill., where he was employed on the elevated railroad of that city for more than thirty years. In 1920 he moved to Schoolcraft county where he operated a farm in the Gulliver vicinity. Following the death of his wife thirteen years ago, he gave up farming operations. Much of his time since then has been spent at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Ann Rubick.

Surviving him are Mrs. Rubick, and two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Wilson and Mrs. Minnie Bell, both of Chicago.

The body will be shipped to Chicago for services and burial. The body is being prepared for burial at the Morton funeral home.

AL BOVARD IS ROTE SPEAKER

Michigan Tech Coach For More Athletics

Bigger and better athletic programs—especially those of the out of doors variety—was advocated by Al Bovard, athletic director at the Michigan Tech College, Houghton, in a talk at the noonday meeting of the Manistique Rotary club Monday.

Healthful recreation, he said, will do more to counteract the much discussed problem of juvenile delinquency, than any other factor. And in making athletic activity most effective, he said, the people of the community — particularly parents of the youngsters on the team—must attend the games and give moral support.

He cited the inspiration that came to him from his father, "Dad," he said, "didn't know much about football, but he knew athletics." His motto was "play clean, but rugged," and that, he said is the essential of good recreation.

At Michigan Tech, where Mr. Bovard has been athletic director for the past two years, the people of that twin city community has suddenly become aware of the fact that the institution's athletics is top notch. The backing the school has received as a result has been a great encouragement. The past season the school's football team was undefeated and its hockey team's record is little short of sensational. He states that the percentage of athletes who fail to make their grades is low compared with the general percentage of students who fail to make their grades.

The speaker was introduced by John Kelly.

HANCOCK MILL TO BE MOVED

To Be Set Up On Burnt Out Location

The local mill of the Hancock Lumber company will be dismantled and moved to replace the one owned by the same company at Sand River, near Marquette, which was destroyed by fire last week, Charles Hancock, co-owner, announces.

The local cut will be cleaned up as soon as possible and then moved to the new location with the hope of getting into operation by about April 1. Mr. Hancock states that there is about two and one-half million feet of lumber in logs at the Sand River location at present and it is therefore urgent that rebuilding operations begin at the earliest possible date.

The mill here will be rebuilt on probably a larger scale than previously. The Hancock mill handled logs for the Nick Sigan Logging and Lumbering corporation of Gladstone.

WSCS Presented Annual Birthday Party Saturday

Last Saturday the Women's Society of Christian Service held its annual birthday party. Departing somewhat from past custom, the women celebrated not just Washington's birthday, but everybody's birthday. "February is a fitting month for such a celebration", said Mrs. John Safran, the program chairman. "The churches have chosen February as Brotherhood Month, and there is Valentine's Day, Washington's birthday and Lincoln's birthday. Instead of choosing one of them, we shall try to combine them all into one program."

The program began with the group singing "Happy Birthday to You." The theme, "Dependence, Independence, Interdependence" was traced in the individual as follows:

Dependence

"Cradle Song", Brahms, Group Singing

Independence

"Let Me Call You Sweetheart", Group Singing

"Valentine Memories", Poems, Joan Sheahan

"Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," Group Singing

Interdependence

"Do Unto Others", (Round), Group Singing

"Home Sweet Home", Group Singing

A comparison was made between the growth of the individual and that of the nation. This was done in the following manner:

Dependence

"George Washington", 2 poems, Lael Richards

"America", Group Singing

Independence

"Gettysburg Address", Margo Viergever

"Lift Every Voice and Sing", Negro Nat'l. Anthem, Solo, by Shirley Anderson.

Interdependence

"America" and "Wake All Ye Nations", Duet Mrs. Safran and Mrs. Pavlot.

Hymn and closing Grace, Group Singing.

After the program the ladies were served refreshments in the church basement. There were twelve long tables each representing a different month in the year. Though there were signs at each table telling the month it was supposed to represent, they were really unnecessary for so clever were the decorations that anyone with a discerning eye could have easily picked out each month for each was different and completely distinctive. The January table had for its centerpiece a lake scene with ice fishing huts and fishermen, complete with the fish they had caught. Any fisherman would have been proud of the catch for the fish were almost as big as the fishermen. There were large snowmen at either end of the table and the favors were small snowmen. The February table featured a large white crocheted hat turned upside down with a cherry tree in it. Two colonial dolls dressed in red were at either side. The favors were small crocheted hats with a red hatchet and filled with red candies. A large shamrock stood in the center of the March table and the favors were small shamrocks with pipes stuck thru them. April showed the Easter motif with Easter bunny candles in the center and two large glass hens filled with candy. At each place was a multi-colored cup filled with candy. The May Table had a Maypole in the center with colored streamers to each place. There were very unusual blue and white candles. The favors were small cups filled with nuts. The traditional bridal table represented June. In the center was a three layer bridal cake complete with miniature bride and groom. At least one person had to touch it to make sure that it wasn't real. Each guest at this table received a tiny paper corsage. The July table had a patriotic theme with a centerpiece of American flags beneath which were a group of toy soldiers. Tiny flags stuck in large gumdrops were at each place. "Family Vacation time" said a sign at the August table. Its centerpiece was a miniature lake with two birch bark canoes afloat in it. On the shores were two cabins set among pine trees. Small birch bark canoes with a pine tree were the favors. "Back to School" said the September table. It had a large school house in the center, the napkins each had a schoolboy or girl in one corner and the favors were tiny slates with appropriate writings on them. October of course featured Halloween with black and orange streamers. The centerpiece was a circle of four white candles and within the circle were two black cats and witches on pumpkins. A crocheted nut cup filled with Halloween candles was at each place. The November table had as its centerpiece the Cross and expressed the idea of Thanksgiving. The "Thanks" being portrayed by a filled cornicopia on one side of the Cross. On the other the "giving" was shown by a toy freight train to represent the shipments of CARE and CROP for foreign relief. The tiny car was filled to overflowing with the things which the people of America are asked to send abroad. The favors were miniature flour sacks each labeled with something the recipients of our giving need, and each filled with candy. The December table had Santa and his reindeer and sleigh in the center, with tall red candles at either end. The individual nut cups were wrapped as Christmas gifts.

The refreshments served by Mrs. Grimsley consisted of a jellied veal salad, crackers, coffee and cake.

In Memoriam

In loving Memory of our dear wife and mother, Mrs. Paul Broeckaert, who passed away ten years ago today, February 22, 1939.

Deep in our hearts lies a picture
More precious than silver or gold.
It's a picture of you dearest mother
Who's memory shall never grow old.

It was so hard to see you go,
Our heart's still ache with sorrow
As they did ten years ago.
They say time heals all heartaches
And helps us to forget.
But so far time has proven
How much we all miss you yet.

Sadly missed by
Paul Broeckaert and family

Brunette, Bumbacco In Semifinals Of Chicago's Tourney Of Champions

Chicago, Feb. 22 (AP)—Amateur swingers in the four heavier classes — welterweights, middleweights, light-heavies and heavyweights—take the spotlight tonight in a 120-bout program of the Golden Gloves tournament at Chicago stadium.

Sharp, speedy little fellows in the four lighter weight classes opened the 22nd annual tournament last night.

Two sharpshooters from the Upper Michigan Golden Gloves tournament who won sectional championships in Milwaukee provided plenty of spice in opening action last night.

Joe Brunette, Canadian Soo 118-pound whirlwind, eliminated Art Manze, of Chicago, and Jerry Albough, of Peoria, Ill., and his teammate, Fred Bumbacco, 112-pound scrapper, also shunted aside two opponents and advanced to the semifinals here Wednesday night.

Bumbacco's victims were Jerry Shand, of Minneapolis, in the first round and Jack Freres, of Peoria, Ill., in the second round.

Brunette will compete in the semifinals Wednesday night also.

A surprising upset was the defeat of Fernando Rivera of Kansas City, Mo., seeking 135-pound championship honors. Rivera, 1948 International Golden Gloves 126-pound champion, was eliminated by Oklahoma City's Jerry Brownrigg, a student at Central College, Edmond, Okla.

Still another upset was the defeat of Auburn Copeland of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Fighting in the 118-pound class, Copeland was outpointed by Jack McCann of Oklahoma City one hour after he had knocked out Varge Lowe of Ogden, Utah.

The 32 survivors of tonight's battles will join the 32 victors of last night in 32 quarter-final battles tomorrow night. The winners will become eligible for the finals on the night of March 4.

The finalists will represent Chicago in the intercity matches with New York in Madison Square Garden, March 28.

The light heavyweight class is one of the strongest in recent years. Milwaukee has its Richard Radish, while Chicago will be represented by Millard Baker. Wesbury Bascom is a dangerous threat from St. Louis. Evansville, Ind., will bank upon Clarence Moutry. Tom Adams, football star from Hardin-Simmons, also will be seeking top honors.

The rugged heavyweight division includes such punchers as Joe Wayne, Omaha; James Watkins, Indianapolis; Chicago's Desry Sykes, Dick Woodey, Minneapolis, and St. Louis' Bill Bangert, National A. A. U. runner-up last year.

Illini Romp Over Iowa; Wisconsin, Indiana Also Win

Chicago, Feb. 22 (AP)—Illinois gave 15 players a workout in romping over Iowa 80-49 last night to tighten its hold on the Big Nine basketball lead.

The high-flying Illini, wrapping up their eighth league win in nine starts, were paced by Dike Eddleman's 19 points and Slip Kersulis' 14. Eddleman and the rest of the regulars were sent to the showers with eight minutes remaining and Illinois leading 68-35.

Eddleman bagged 12 of his points in the first half as Illinois zoomed into a 41-19 margin.

At Bloomington, Indiana replaced Ohio State in fifth place by upsetting the Buckeyes 65-45. Center Bob Raidiger topped Ohio State with 16 points, while Bob Donham was limited to three and Dick Schnittker to nine. Bill Garrett and Lou Watson contributed 18 apiece for the Hoosiers.

Wisconsin pushed Northwestern deeper into the cellar at Madison with a 57-4 decision. Center Don Rehfeldt, the league's leading scorer, pumped in 21 points to boost his 10 game total to 179. Bill Sticklen with 12 and Jim Barr with 11 were high for the Wildcats.

Jim McIntyre's 16 points topped Minnesota as the Gophers took a 57-47 non-league win over Michigan State.

Mikulich Stars As U-M Spanks Purdue, 64-53

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—Michigan's basketball team looked like a champion today—with no place to go.

Knocked out of its last title chances by Minnesota two nights ago, Michigan came roaring back last night with top-notch poise and fight to sink Purdue 64-53.

Mack Suprunowicz, agile forward from Schnectady, N. Y., showed the Wolverines the way by hitting an amazing 50 per cent of his shots to pile up 28 points in the best Michigan individual performance on record.

The total bettered the old mark of 27 points by Tom King against Ohio State in 1944.

And as Suprunowicz went, so went the team. Hitting for a fine 34 per cent of their shots, the Michigans rolled to their sixth league win in nine starts and threw a strong look around third place in the conference standings behind Illinois, the pace setter, and Minnesota.

It was Purdue's fifth defeat in 11 starts and sank the Boilermakers farther into fourth place.

Ironically, the impressive win enhanced the odd possibility that Michigan might be the team to dump red hot Illinois and kick the Gophers of former Michigan coach Ozzie Cowles into a share of the title.

Bill Mikulich forward, added 13 points to the unexpected shower of baskets. Guards Pete Elliott and Bob Harrison balanced the attack with nine and seven respectively.

Michigan will test its new found prowess Saturday night against Ohio State at Columbus while Illinois journeys to Northwestern, Purdue to Minnesota and Indiana to Iowa.

Kentucky Has Big Lead In National Basketball Race

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Now that pace-setting Kentucky is plumb out of reach, interest in the National college basketball standings today centers on the brisk fight for the runnerup spot.

Three teams—St. Louis, Oklahoma A. and M. and Illinois—are so closely bunched that a spectacular streak for any one could clinch the No. 2 berth.

The Kentucky Wildcats, who defeated Georgia last night for their 23rd victory in 24 games, are far out in front in the weekly Associated Press poll and are refusing to slow down.

They received 55 first place votes from the 66 sport writers and sportcasters participating this week and rolled up 647 points.

St. Louis is second with 548 and then follow the Oklahoma Aggies with 479 and Illinois with 417.

Completing the top ten are Minnesota, Tulane, Western Kentucky, San Francisco, Bowling Green and Bradley.

New York, Feb. 22 (AP)—Kentucky's top-ranked Wildcats continued their winning habits last night but two other members of college basketball's top ten, Tulane and Bradley, failed to follow suit.

Tuane, sixth in the rankings by virtue of 20 victories and two losses to Kentucky, lost a Southeastern conference game to Vanderbilt, 56-54.

Bradley, No. 10 in the latest Associated Press poll, fell before Drake by an identical margin, 56-54, in a Missouri Valley conference upset at Des Moines.

Kentucky, No. 1 in the poll, won its 23rd victory in 24 starts, rolling over Georgia, 95-40. Big Alex Groza scored 38 points to break the Southeastern conference individual scoring record.

DOWNS MARK

Pittsburgh—In a National Football league game in 1948, the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Steelers combined made 54 first downs, 31 of them made by the Steelers. Both marks were new records.

103 GRID POINTS

San Francisco—Brooklyn and San Francisco, in a 1948 game in the All-America conference, piled up a combined score of 103 points and also gained 1,030 combined yards by rushing and passing, both totals setting new league records

Hawk Game Here Saturday With SMAC Postponed

The game between the South Marquette Athletic club and Escanaba Hawks, which was to have been played here this Saturday night as a non-league exhibition tilt, has been postponed because of the ski tournament in Iron Mountain this weekend.

Arrangements are being made to play the game at a later date.

The Hawks have three league out-of-town games on schedule. They are slated to play at Marquette, Stambaugh and Sault Ste. Marie before closing the books on their U. P. Hockey league schedule.

Plans are underway for a best-two-of-three series with the Gladstone Indians for the inter-city championship. Instead of making this a two-game total-goal series, it is likely the Delta county rivals will meet in a straight best-two-of-three.

Bomar, Day Make ABC Singles Bid

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 22 (AP)—Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., five time holder of the National singles crown and Ed Bomar, Chicago, twice holder of the national match game singles, will be gunning for the lead in the singles event today in the American Bowling Congress tournament.

The two stars will attempt to replace 46-year-old Howard Eaket, a salesman from Grand Rapids, Mich. Eaket, representing the Fanatorium Recreation Center in team play came up with a 709 yesterday. He rolled 235-235-239 for the first 700 game he has bowled in 15 ABC tournaments.

GOPHERS TIP SPARTANS

East Lansing, Feb. 22 (AP)—Michigan State was unable to bottle up Jim Mc Intyre as the tall, high-scoring Minnesota center led his team to a 57-47 basketball win witnessed by 8,225 fans here last night. The six foot nine inch Mc Intyre led the scoring with 16 points. Although the Spartans put two men to work guarding him. Six of his points were on tip-in shots as the double protection forced MSC into numerous fouls.

Wings Hold 10-Point Lead In NHL On 2-2 Tie With Boston Six

Detroit, Feb. 22 (AP) — A 2-0 jump wasn't enough last night for the Detroit Red Wings to record their first National Hockey league win in four starts, but they still were 10 points ahead of the parade today after a 2-2 deadlock with the Boston Bruins.

The first Monday night NHL game in Detroit in years attracted 13,582 fans but if they were misled by two Red Wing goals in the opening period they can be excused.

The Bruins charged back like an entirely different club to squeeze out the tie on unassisted markers by John Peirson and Paul Ronty, one in each of the last two periods.

Peirson's goal was a flukey one that caromed in off Detroit Leo Reise's skate but there was nothing phoney about Ronty's pass interception and his solo sprint two-thirds the length of the ice for the tying counter.

The Red Wings threw all kinds of pressure on the Bruins in the opening period for their two goals.

The first one, three minutes after the opening faceoff, came on a sweeping backhander by Sid Abel while teammate Ted Lindsay was in the penalty box. It was Abel's 21st goal of the year.

Max McNab got the other on a picture play off passes by Len Kelly and Pete Horeck.

Only Three 20-Game Winners Up From Minors; AL Gets 2

New York, Feb. 22 (AP) — Major league baseball teams will have plenty of pitchers up from the minors in their training camps this year but very few 20-game winners.

A check of the rosters appearing in the green and red books, house organs of the National and American leagues, respectively, reveal only three such creatures.

The Cincinnati Reds have the lone pitcher in the National league who copped 20 or more games in the leaky roof circuit in 1948. He is Harry Perkowski, a towering lefthander who won 22 and lost 10 for Tulsa of the Texas league.

Detroit and St. Louis are the only American league teams that have a minor league 20-game victor. The Tigers got Lou Kretlow, who rang up a 21-12 record for Williamsport of the Eastern league. The Brownies have Bob Malloy, a draftee from Indianapolis of the American Association. Malloy, who previously had trials with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, won 21 and lost 7 for Indianapolis.

Coaltown Scares Away Entries At Hialeah Widener

Miami, Fla., Feb. 22 (AP) — It appeared today they'll have to call off Saturday's rich Widener at Hialeah if Calumet farm is to be prevented from winning it for the fourth time.

The big reason is, of course, Coaltown, a three-time winner at the current meeting and fresh from a triumph in last weekend's McLennan. The Calumet express already has beaten a number of Widener hopefuls and reports today were that several rivals have been scared out of the $50,000 added, mile and a quarter classic.

Esky Bowlers Lose Match in Negaunee

A team of Escanaba high school league bowlers lost to a team of Negaunee high school keglers in Negaunee Sunday by a score of 2362 to 2244. Eino Kangas led the Eskies with 537. A return match has been slated here during the Class C basketball tournament.

Those making the jaunt were Eino Kangas, Boyd Lemirand, Gil Kainan, Ralph Sivertsen, Mano Horchner, Lloyd Olson, Joe LaFave, Emmanuel Dart, Ken Maycunich, Don Gaedert, Harold McLaughlin and Don McLaughlin.

MSC GRAPPLERS WIN

East Lansing, Feb. 22 (AP)—Michigan State's wrestlers won six out of eight matches and held another to draw as they rolled on to down Indiana 24-5 here last night.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS SPORTS

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

Off the cuff: Regardless of what anyone may think of Curley Lambeau, a better spirit is bound to prevail on the Rockwood lodge campus of the Green Bay Packers next fall with genial, jovial Tom Stidham around as an assistant coach . . . He's as likeable a fellow as you could hope to find . . . We had occasion to watch him in our neophyte sports writing days in Oklahoma and feel sure he will be an asset to the Packers . . . It will be interesting to see how Jack Jacobs will react to Stidham's presence . . . Jacobs was developed into a first-rate star at the University of Oklahoma under Stidham, and, undoubtedly, he has a great deal of respect for him . . . It may prove to be the revival of Jacobs' effectiveness.

* * *

After being among the top-notchers, Jacobs slipped to 15th among National Football league passers last season . . . Irving Comp ranked 21st . . . Jug Girard ranked 29th . . . And Perry Moss, fourth Packer passer, was 30th in the NFL . . . Marinette's Jugger attempted 14 and completed four for 117 yards, one of them for a touchdown and one as long as 40 yards.

* * *

Escanaba will meet Stephenson in the first round of the district high school Class B basketball tournament in Menominee Friday, March 4 . . . If the Eskymos can solve big George Peterson sufficiently to cop that contest, they will meet Menominee in the finals and that could well be a terrific affair that would test to the limit the Eskymos' ability to maintain their poise and keep their wits about them.

* * *

Ill most of the week, Warren Gustafson did not make the trip to Manistique for the Emerald game last Friday, although it was expected earlier in the day he would be able to play . . . Escanaba lost that game, 47-44 . . . That the Eskymos came that close, despite missing many shots, is a tribute to their success in cracking Manistique's zone defense . . . Incidentally, all reports have it that the Manistique crowd was one of the most sportsmanlike the Eskymos have played before all season.

* * *

Mort Luby, nationally known bowling scribe, again will provide local coverage of the ABC bowling classic for this newspaper—if any! . . . How about it? . . . Any teams from the Escanaba area making the long jaunt to Atlantic City, N. J.

* * *

Russ Leonard, golf pro at Marquette since 1945, has accepted a similar job at the Huntingburg Country club, Huntingburg, Ind., where he will have a house provided for himself, wife and six children . . . Russ, brother of Cotton and one of six golf professional brothers, served three years at Milwaukee Country club, seven at Rhinelander, Wis., and several at Green Bay Shorewood before going to Marquette.

* * *

Holder of the nine and 18-hole record at Marquette (31-32—63), Russ Leonard was generally recognized as the best player among U. P. golf professionals . . . He and Cotton were instrumental in originating the U. P. Open Golf tournament in 1947 . . . It was held here in '47, moved last year to Iron Mountain where Escanaba won nearly all the honors and this summer will be held in Blaney Park.

* * *

Caught on the rebound at the Hawk-SMAC hockey game here Sunday night: In case you're wondering why all the Marquette players had beards (all those who could raise them), Marquette is getting ready for its centennial celebration in July and grow-beards is part of the fun . . . Little confusing at first, the Hawks thought they were moving into the House of David . . . It was good to see Wayne Groleau break loose with hockey's famed hat trick" . . . We've had a feeling since first working out with Groleau that he would break into a scoring rash before long.

* * *

You can chalk up that victory over Marquette to the new pass-pass-pass policy of the Escanaba Hawks . . . Note one double assist on a second line score—Ernie Belanger, George Petaja and Scotty Grabowski . . . And the way Dud Paquette, Bud Hanson and Groleau were working together was a treat to behold . . . The Hawks came from behind to beat Newberry and they came from behind to stop the SMAC.

French Team Cracks Up In Bob Sled Run

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 22 (AP)—Three teams—two from the United States and one from Switzerland—shoot for the world's four-man bobsled championship today down the hazardous Mt. Van Hoevenberg run that has been the scene of two serious accidents in two weeks.

The French were forced out of the four-man competition by a crack-up in the two-man title event yesterday that saw Henri Adan and Louis Saint Calbre injured.

The accident occurred on the mile-long chute's dangerous "shady corner" where the Belgian Olympic veteran, Max Houben, was killed and his brakeman, Jacques Mouvert, was injured in a trial run Feb. 10.

Adan suffered a fractured skull and is reported in critical condition at Lake Placid hospital. The brakeman has multiple head contusions but is less seriously injured.

The United States—with Olympic veterans Jim (No Brakes) Bickford and Stan Benham guiding the two sleds—is favored in the four-man event. The lone Swiss sled is piloted by the Olympic campaigner, Fritz Feierabend.

The Americans could finish no better than third and fourth in the two-man title run, won by the daring Swiss driver, Felix Endrich.

Endrich, who teamed with Brakeman Fritz Waller to duplicate his victory in the Winter Olympics at St. Moritz, had to turn in a record run on his final trip to beat out his fellow countryman, Feierabend.

Endrich made the final mile sweep in one minute, 18.97 seconds to turn in a combined time of five minutes, 18.52 seconds for the four journeys down the icy gorge.

WMCE BOWS

Kalamazoo, Mich., Feb. 22 (AP)—Western Michigan bowed to the fast Loyola of Chicago basketball team last night 66-44. For a time in the second half Western made it interesting with a 14-point rally but the Broncos already were 25 points behind and it didn't help much.

Devlin, Tokle, Barber To Shoot At New Record In Iron Mountain Meet

ART DEVLIN

Iron Mountain, Feb. 22 — Art Devlin, daredevil from Lake Placid, N. Y.; Art Tokle, Brooklyn's brother of the late Torger Tokle; and Merrill Barber, another eastern star from Brattleboro, Vt., today joined the growing list of American stars who will try for a new American distance record in the ski jumping classics here Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 26-27.

Devlin, member of the 1948 Olympic team, is one of the most spectacular riders and greatest stylists ever to challenge giant Pine Mountain slide. It will be his third appearance here. His leg injury of two years ago completely healed, Devlin has been going great guns this year.

Tokle, too, is jumping better than ever this season. Brother of the famous star who leaped 289 feet here in 1942, Art fell seven feet short of Torger's mark here last year.

Barber, former professional but reinstated to the amateur ranks, has been a great eastern stylist for years.

Before the weekend, every noted American rider is expected to be entered in the competition against the European aces—Petter Hugsted, of Norway, and Matti Pietikainen and Leo Laakso, of Finland—for top honors in America's largest and most colorful ski jumping extravaganza.

Some 30,000 spectators are expected to see the twin classics. There will be a separate tournament on each day.

National Ski Jumping Tests Now Underway

Salt Lake City, Feb. 22 (AP)—The elite of the skiing world's aristocracy—American, Norwegian and Olympic champions—were set today for the National Ski Jumping tests.

The competition on Ecker Hill, 23 miles east of here at a 6,800 foot elevation in the Wasatch Mountains, took on the aspect of a tournament of champions.

Sverre Engen of Salt Lake City turned in the longest competitive leap yesterday, a 236 footer which combined with his 219 foot first jump to give him 224.6 points as the only senior class open division entrant.

Marvin Crawford of Steamboat Springs, Colo., won the Class C event with leaps of 221 and 226 for 217.1 points. Howard Jansen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, led the senior class amateurs with 186 and 202 foot jumps and 201.6 points. John Bednary, Iron Mountain, Mich., placed fourth in Class C with 200 and 212 and 205.3 points.

The masters ready for action today fill a roster which looks like a record of champions rather than an entry list. Among the leading contenders are:

Sverre Kongsgaard of Norway, who set still-unrecognized U. S. record of 290 feet at Hyak, Wash., three weeks ago. The present record is 289 feet, set by the late Torger Tokle at Iron Mountain, Mich., in 1942.

Petter Hugsted, Norway's 1948 Olympic champ. Hugsted won the St. Paul, Minn., Winter Carnival tourney only Sunday.

Arthur Tokle of the Norway Ski club, brother of Torger, who won the Brattleboro, Vt., annual invitation meet Sunday. Arthur had a 282-footer to his credit in one meet in 1948.

"What did I tell you, Professor—doesn't that Cisco Solvent really clean her out?"

CITIES SERVICE

Most people don't let their engines get in the same condition that the Professor did . . . but all engines collect deposits of sludge, grit or dirt in the oil lines, around the screen and other vital parts.

Patented Cisco Solvent, unlike mere "flushing oils," dissolves sludge . . . washes out grit and dirt . . . leaves the oiling system clean, ready for fresh, new oil.

We suggest you get our patented Cisco Solvent treatment before every oil change for smoother, longer engine performance. Remember, Cisco Solvent is a Cities Service exclusive. Try it today!

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Edwin Orava, who was killed one year ago, Feb. 22, 1948.

One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away.
God took him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts, he liveth still.

Sadly missed by

ESA ORAVA (father),
JALMER, NESTOR, JOEL AND WILLIAM (brothers),
MARION LEINONEN, ELVIRA KIPPOLA and ELMA ROSTEN (sisters).

Former MSC Home Economist Names 'Whispering Woman'

Hollywood California (AP)—Miss Merle Ford, former Michigan State college home economist, has won what was described as the biggest cash prize in the history of radio jackpots.

Miss Ford, who now lives in Chicago, won $25,000 and a new car on NBC's Truth and Consequences "Whispering Woman" contest Saturday night. She correctly identified the whispering woman as singer Jeannette MacDonald.

Ralph Edwards, master of ceremonies, said the award was the largest cash prize ever given away on a radio program.

Miss Ford, who also formerly taught at the universities of Iowa and Wisconsin, now free lances in her profession.

"I spent a good deal of time in libraries looking up biographies of various singers," she said at her Chicago home. "I was just lucky, I think."

Phosphorus was discovered in 1670.
